Khrushchev— Out of Focus

Joe Stalin smoked a big crooked-stemmed pipe. For years, therefore, many persons looked upon him as perhaps an amiable "Uncle Joe" sort of fellow—all because of the pipe.

In this country we have an image of old men who smoke pipes. They are all looked upon as "uncles." The pipe somehow has become a symbol of stolid dependability and kindness.

Shakespeare said that a man may smile and smile, and still be a villain. And certainly a man may puff and puff upon a pipe and still be a monster . . . as we know, for example, from the late Uncle Joe Stalin, to mention one.

Now we have Nikita Khrushchev . . . the most powerful man since Stalin.

And what is our image of Nikita?

It is that of a vodka-swilling oaf, moving from cocktail party to cocktail party, usually drunk and happy to be that way.

Nothing could be more wrong. And it should at once be obvious that to accept so distorted a view of a man as powerful and able as he, is to accept mythology and foolishness. Both are dangerous drugs.

No drunk is any good at anything—except making an ass and a nuisance of himself or herself.

No Drunks at Top

And no drunk gets to the top. Some persons become drunks after they scale the pinnacle But they all end up like Humpty-Dumpty.

Whatever Nikita Khrushchev is—he is not a drunkard.

He is, instead, one of the shrewdest, most capable and ruthless politicians of our time. To think of him otherwise is misleading and dangerous.

No drunk, and no oaf, or combination of the two, could have survived all the years of throat-cutting and intrigue which went on in the Kremlin during the years since the revolution. He has been inside, or on the edge of the power circle ever since the Bolsheviks ousted the Mensheviks and, led by Lenin, came to control in Russia. Many a greater name than his is long in a grave. And still others rot in prison. At a time when Stalin and Beria were cooling toward Khrushchev and his associates, Stalin died Or did he? It was convenient of him . . . whichever it was . . . death or murder.

And Beria, who could have seized power at the time, was persuaded to delay. And then . . . bong! . . . as the comic strips have it. He was taken out and shot.

And there was General Zhukov . . . hero of the Russian army.

He saved Khrushchev in the period of jockeying for power which followed Beria's execution.

But you know who was thinking about that? Nikita.

And you know what Nikita was thinking?

Nikita Khrushchev was thinking that if Gen. Zhukov was powerful enough to save him, he was powerful enough to destroy him.

Zhukov's Journey

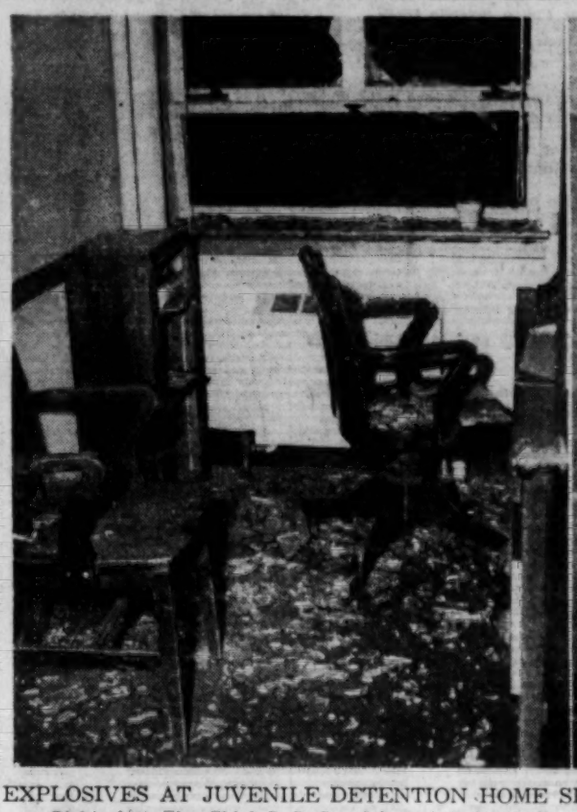

So. Gen. Zhukov was sent off on a journey to cement friendship in the satellite countries. And while he was away Nikita fixed it so he could oust him. He is now in semi-exile and certainly in jeopardy.

This is just a sample. But can anyone imagine that to be the work of an oafish cocktail party lush? No, sir. It isn't. He is, instead, our most dangerous adversary.

The evidence seems to be that In 1955 when Khrushchev was on the good-will visit to Yugoslavia to make peace with Tito he did get drunk and was alcoholically genial with correspondents, inviting them to Russia and doing a lot of backslapping, old pal, old pal talk. Ever since that time, picture editors have delighted in running photos of Khrushchev with a drink in his hand. So images are built . . . sometimes dangerous ones. He drinks—but he knows when to make it fruit juice or ginger ale.

There used to be a legend in the newspaper business of the reporter who wrote better when he was drunk. This, too, was a myth. What happened was some friend wrote the story and signed the drunk's name to protect his job. Those who had seen him drunk and wh. saw the by-line imagined he somehow had written it. So the myth grew. But it was all myth.

Nikita knows what he is doing. And I, for one, wish he were a drunk and didn't.

U.S. To Warn World Russia Won't Allow Atom Ban Inspection

Test Halt By Soviets Seen Today

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States Sunday prepared a global warning that any unilateral decision by Russia to halt nuclear tests was likely to skirt the cheat - proof inspection system urged by the West.

A dramatic Soviet announcement on nuclear policy is expected Monday on the basis of a series of statements by Nikita Khrushchev, the number one Russian, recent articles in Soviet publications and private diplomatic advices.

BY GROMYKO

The betting was that a halt in Soviet tests would be announced by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the meeting of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) which is now in session.

President Eisenmower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other administration officials have carefully analyzed probable motives behind any such Moscow move.

The American response already has been tentatively drafted, although the final reaction will depend upon a reading of the expected Soviet decision.

CAREFUL CHECK

The United States will point out that the West for years has insisted upon a careful inspection program to prevent violations of any disarmament agreement, including a ban on nuclear testing. The Soviets are almost sure to side-step the inspection issue.

This government also planned to pin a propaganda label on the Soviet action inasmuch as the Russians are now doing alone what they have refused to do with the West.

But officials believe that the propaganda - psychological impact still will be heavily on the side of the Soviets because of the world's fears of nuclear conflict.

TIMING IS BEST

Officials pointed out that any Soviet announcement on nuclear tests would come immediately after the Russians had completed a series of at least nine tests, and just before the United States begins its summer series of tests in the Pacific.

It was acknowledged that the propaganda timing of a Soviet move could not be better.

U.N. Halts Israel-Syria Shore Clash

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (UP)—Israeli and Syrian forces battled with tanks and mortars on the southern shore of Lake Tiberias Sunday.

The exchange of fire lasted more than two hours. The Israelis reported two of their men were injured and said "a number" of Syrians were cut down by Israeli tank fire.

A cease-fire call by the U.N. truce supervisory organization stopped the battle.

TROUBLED FIGHT

The fight culminated a week of trouble in the Huleh Basin where Israel is attempting to carry out drainage operations.

(A military spokesman in Damascus said the Israelis were working in the demilitarized zone in violation of an order by the U.N. truce organization.)

The Israeli spokesman said the battle started at noon, 10 minutes after drainage work began south of Huleh.

RIFLE FIRE

He said Syrians opened up on the workers with rifle fire.

"Israel forces returned the fire and silenced the Syrian rifles," he said. "With the resumption of work, Syrian-fortified positions opened fire with automatic weapons.

"In order to silence the positions, tanks were brought into action. During the exchange, the Syrians fired heavy mortars on the workers and Israel covering forces.

"When the Syrians accepted a United Nations request to cease fire, Israel forces stopped firing at 2:30 p.m."

The Syrian spokesman said the Israeli tanks shelled two Arab villages and that Israeli troops fired on Syrian villagers. He said the Syrians resorted to mortar fire when the Israelis ignored a cease fire ultimatum.

Sen. Kennedy

Ike Viewed Deep in Tax Slash Study

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dr. Gabriel Hague, President Eisenhower's personal economic adviser, said Sunday the administration is leaning neither toward nor away from a possible tax cut.

"I think we're standing straight up, looking at the facts," Hague said.

The White House economist said in an NBC-TV interview—"Meet the Press"—that it would be several weeks before the administration decides whether a tax reduction is needed to counter the current recession.

BROAD STUDY

This decision, he added, would not be based on any single economic index, such as unemployment figures, but on a broad study of all factors.

Hague said he believes actions already taken are beginning to slow down the slump and he reaffirmed a prediction that the April-June quarter "will see the bottom of the downturn."

If the slump is brought to a halt in the second quarter, he said, "in the autumn we would begin to see real signs of a lift."

SCOUTS JOBLESS FIGURE

Asked about the possible future course of unemployment, Hague declined to agree with a suggestion that six million Americans will be jobless before the recession ends.

He said he expects the March unemployment figures to be closer to February's level of 5,200,000 than to six million. The March statistics will be made public in about two weeks.

Seventeen Senate Democrats and one Republican appealed Sunday for early Finance Committee hearings on a proposal to liberalize the unemployment compensation system. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) is principal sponsor of specific legislation the group is backing and is serving as the group's spokesman.

They addressed their plea to Sen. Byrd (D-Va), the committee chairman, who announced coincidentally that the finance group will resume on Tuesday its public

Bobby Jones Will Leave The Hospital

Bobby Jones, 56, former grand slam golfing champion who was stricken Friday with what doctors described as a "circulatory collapse," is expected to be released from Emory University Hospital Monday afternoon.

The world-famous golfer's physician said Jones would be confined at his home at 3425 Tuxedo Rd., NW, and would be unable to attend a Monday night dinner honoring Harold Sargent, golf pro at the East Lake Country Club.

The doctor said Jones' progress at home would decide whether the ex-king of golf will travel to Augusta Thursday for the opening of the Masters Tournament, which Jones was instrumental in inaugurating at the Augusta National Club in 1934.

The circulatory collapse, which Jones suffered Friday night at his home, was described by the physician as "a mild shock-like state characterized by a drop in blood pressure."

Share Atom Plan Hit By Russell

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, jolted administration hopes for a broader atom - sharing plan Sunday by declaring that he opposed changes in the present Atomic Energy Act.

His statement was the latest in a series of setbacks for the administration's proposal to ease legal provisions governing exchange of nuclear materials and nuclear weapons data with this country's allies.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMITTEE

Russell is a member of the congressional Atomic Energy Committee as well as head of the powerful armed forces group.

"I am opposed to spreading nuclear weapons around the world," he told a reporter. "Our experience in the case of conventional weapons indicates the impossibility of complete control on the use of military equipment when we have surrendered control."

PRESENT SYSTEM ALL RIGHT

"In my opinion our present arrangements make these weapons available to carry out any international commitments our nation may have made without the danger of the weapons being used in hostilities which are in no way related to our international security."

One of the features of the administration plan would provide for the exchange of certain data to nations which have shown an atomic weapons capability. That provision was designed to facilitate exchanges with Britain.

The administration does not propose to transfer missile warheads or other nuclear weapons.

Hartsfield Suit Set for Today At Gainesville

First legal arguments in Mayor Hartsfield's battle with the state of Georgia over the county unit system will be heard at 2 p.m. Monday in federal court at Gainesville.

Judge Boyd Sloan will determine if the case should be heard by one judge or three. If the three-judge panel is ordered, their ruling could be immediately appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Juvenile Home Blast Suspect Seized Here

By JAMES SHEPPARD

A 17-year-old youth was being held Sunday night in connection with the explosion that rocked the Fulton County Juvenile Detention Home early Sunday morning.

The blast, heard at least 10 miles away, shattered windows in the building at 183 Central Ave., SW, and hurled an attendant down a stairway. It occurred a few minutes after midnight.

The youth was questioned and charged with suspicion of attempt to murder, Detective Capt. R. E. Little Jr. said. His identity is withheld at the request of police. Capt. Little assigned 12 detectives to the case and said other arrests are expected.

POLICE GUARD

Meanwhile, a police guard was posted around the detention home.

It was reliably reported that police and juvenile home officials had received a series of telephone threats that the building would be "bombed."

W. W. Woolfolk, judge of the Fulton County Juvenile Court, inspecting the detention home Sunday night, would neither confirm nor deny threats to "bomb" the building. "I have no statement to make to the press at this time," Judge Woolfolk said.

INSPECTS DAMAGE

The judge looked over the damage, inspected the second and third floors, where the children are kept, and reported, "Operations are back to normal at the juvenile home as of Sunday night."

Capt. Little said he had been unable to determine what type explosive was used, but guessed it was dynamite.

Detectives found a length of wiring leading from a basement window — where the explosives were set—across a 25-foot alley behind the home. The wire extended up a flight of metal stairs to the Fulton County Courthouse parking lot, where flashlight batteries were found.

48 ESCAPE

Forthy-eight juveniles, the matron and two child-care attendants were in the building.

Asst. Fire Chief C. P. Ragsdale said a major disaster was averted by failure of the culprits to put the explosive underneath the three-story, concrete and steel building.

Attendant Stephen L. Thomas, 23, of 1175 Cahaba Dr., SW, was knocked to the bottom of a staircase by the explosion. He was

Meg Called On Carpet By Queen

WINDSOR, England (UP) — A grim Princess Margaret flew home from a week-end in Germany Sunday and went immediately to Windsor Castle to face the reported "displeasure" of her sister, the Queen, over her reunion with Peter Townsend last week.

The meeting was the first between the sisters since the 27-year-old Margaret caused a sensation by receiving Group Capt. Townsend, her old flame, to tea on Wednesday.

The British popular press was unanimous in reporting that Queen Elizabeth was irritated by her sister's action in inviting Townsend to tea within a few hours of his return to England from a world tour.

The Queen was reported to feel that Margaret's move caused needless embarrassment to her and Prince Philip at a time when they were on a state visit to The Netherlands.

"Princess Margaret On The Carpet Tonight," said a headline in the tabloid Sunday Pictorial.

Margaret and the Queen had crossed routes, but did not meet last Friday, when the Princess left by plane for Germany and the Queen returned from The Netherlands.

But it was reported that Queen Elizabeth spoke to her sister by ship-to-shore telephone as soon as the royal yacht arrived in British waters and told Margaret bluntly what she thought of her get-together with Townsend.

2 Manhole Covers Can Be Suspicious

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Police became suspicious Sunday when they noticed that the back end of a car containing two men was sagging almost to the ground.

They stopped the car, opened the trunk and found two manhole covers weighing 285 pounds. The men said they were out of work and planned to sell the covers for junk.

Marquis, 73, Wins Duel With Dancer

PARIS (UP) — The Marquis de Cuevas got vengeance on the field of honor Sunday. He nicked ballet master Serge Lifar on the forearm with an epee. Then they kissed and made up.

The duel looked something like a ballet written by Lifar and staged by the 73-year-old marquis. But it satisfied all the requirements of honor, according to the dueling code.

ARE FORBIDDEN

Duels are forbidden, and this one was supposed to be secret. But 100 peasants and an army of newspaper photographers and reporters assembled on the field of honor at the village of Blaru outside Paris.

As they prepared for the duel, the marquis was heard to remark: "I'll throw all my courage into it."

Lifar had given the challenge because the marquis, in staging a Lifar ballet, had done a little editing with the original script.

Lifar learned to handle a sword as a cadet in Czarist Russia. He advanced, prancing about like the ballet master he is. The marquis, a novice with dueling hardware, was not quite so fancy.

NO CUTTING EDGE

The first exchange with the epee, a dueling weapon with a sharp point but no cutting edge, was uneasy. Things pepped up in the third of the two-minute rounds.

Then in the fourth, the marquis flicked Lifar's forearm. A thin trickle of blood appeared. The seconds ordered a halt.

The marquis beamed. The 52-year-old Lifar took his defeat with a grin as his seconds daubed the blood on his forearm.

Rebels Wreck Own Airstrip In Indonesia

PADANG, Central Sumatra (UP)—Indonesian rebels blasted holes in the Padang landing field Sunday and ordered some civilians into the mountains in preparation for a possible government assault on this revolutionary nerve center.

The airstrip was the only serviceable one in the area. The Jakarta government has been threatening an invasion of Padang since the start of fighting earlier this month.

The rebel military command told all civilians to leave the harbor front for a temporary period. The area has been bombarded periodically by government warships since the revolutionary government was proclaimed Feb. 15.

Our Lord's Last Week of Life

Jesus Ejects Money Changers And They Plan Their Revenge

By REV. FITZHUGH LEGERTON

Minister, Oglethorpe Presbyterian Church

This is the second of six articles on Holy Week and the crucifixion, Tuesday in The Constitution: Jesus and His Antagonists.

The cleansing of the Temple. What did it mean?

The cleansing of the Temple was at first our Lord's vigorous protest against those who were making trade in the Temple and profit out of the piety of people. The courts of the Temple were intended for worship and prayer. The merchants came, probably at first as a matter of convenience, and then latterly as a matter of custom.

They could exchange money and sell doves and lambs. Soon they became covetous of their lucrative trade. They brought noise, a jostling crowd, the clank of coins.

It was a serious abuse of the Temple. It interfered with the purposes of the Temple.

Jesus was alarmed: He expressed his alarm decisively and directly by driving out those who conducted this conscienceless business. Our Lord could not abide this traffic.

What does it take to cause us to be alarmed? Usually it takes a drop in the stock market, a dent in the fender of the new car, or a discussion about politics. Are we so wordly wise that wrongs live on in the guise of custom? Are we old veterans of life who no longer have the energy to be vigorous in the face of evil?

Our Lord would not pass by the abuse of the Temple. He wanted the Temple to be a place where people would come to pray, not to be preyed upon. He expressed His alarm in decisive action.

The immediate effect of this ac tracts. Some projects have been practically completed by Lothridge before the state contracts were awarded to the counties.

In White County alone, Lothridge Brothers has been paid $310,278.75 under county contracts in the past three years.

Alton D. Story, the Highway Department's resident engineer at Cleveland, said on orders from the Gainesville division office he had authorized Lothridge to begin work prior to the signing of contracts by the Highway Board.

Records at Cleveland show Lothridge worked on some projects several months before the contracts were given to White County.

State contracts with counties clearly provide the work must be performed by county forces. This provision is violated widely

Mild Weather Due to Stay as Showers Depart

Partly cloudy skies and mild weather are expected Monday and Tuesday, the weatherman said, with the spring rains of the past week scheduled to cease in the Atlanta area.

Temperatures will fluctuate within an eight-degree range Monday, the Atlanta Weather Bureau said, with extreme readings forecast at 52 and 60. The mercury Tuesday is expected to touch a low of 46 and a high of 64.

Sporadic showers dropped .07-inch of rain on Atlanta Sunday, the weatherman said, raising the rainfall total for the past week to 1.79 inches. Extremes recorded in Atlanta Sunday were 50 and 56.

DYING MAN ACCUSES BROTHER-IN-LAW—NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Raymond Sloan, 38, both legs broken by a single deer rifle bullet, points an accusing arm toward his brother-in-law, Woodrow Driver, 43 (to rear of photographer) just after the shooting. Sheriff's Patrol Cpl. Dave White and Deputy Hugh J. Perry Jr. (shown in picture) were just arriving to investigate and saw the bullet as it "slapped Sloan completely around twice." They charged Driver with assault, and said after Sloan died in a hospital they would file a murder charge.

Adlai Hits U.S. Lag on A-Test Ban

Says Soviet Can Upset Inspections

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said Sunday "we have lost the great opportunity we had to take the initiative" in suspension of nuclear tests.

Stevenson, who proposed in his 1956 Democratic presidential campaign that the United States suspend tests unilaterally, was asked in a television interview about reports the Russians may do so on their own.

He said that if the United States had suspended tests at the time he suggested it in 1956 it would have "vastly increased, I believe, our moral influence and respect among the terrified bystanders, the non-nuclear powers."

THROAT TO LEADERSHIP

He added that if the Russians suspend the tests now "this would deprive us, I'm sorry to say, of any shred of moral leadership in the matter.

"Unhappily," he added, "it would even deprive us of the right, of the hope of taking advantage of the possibility of instituting a reciprocal inspection system."

Stevenson appearing on NBC's "Look Here" program, said he still believed it was "wise from my point of view" to make the test-suspension proposal in 1956, though it undoubtedly hurt his campaign more than it helped.

PASSED UP INITIATIVE

He said since he attached great importance to the question, and would have "wanted to press forward" on elimination of nuclear weapons, if elected, "I thought the only thing to do was talk about it.

"We originally could have taken the initiative in proposing that we save mankind from the horror of nuclear weapons. We didn't do it. We thought it better not to. I think that was wrong. Then the Russians seized the initiative and they proposed it."

Saying that the Russians even offered inspection at last summer's London disarmament conference, Stevenson added: "One of the great problems we've had is the secrecy neurosis of the Soviet Union. It seems to me we should have made these proposals ourselves. The best way to break the disarmament deadlock is through the instrument of inspection."

Cancer Cell Chemical Is Found by Researcher

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A young surgeon who lost his own son to leukemia reported Sunday a promising advance against cancer.

Dr. James Grace finds a clear chemical difference between cancers and healty tissue. Cancer contains some mysterious "X" substance that normal cells don't.

It is the first time such a chemical difference ever has been found, though it long has been sought.

Now the hope is to exploit this difference, perhaps for a breakthrough against cancer.

It could lead to drugs designed to kill cancers without harming healthy tissues.

It might supply the key to a vaccine against cancer, or to sending radioactive antibodies as messengers of doom to cancer cells. The antibodies would attach themselves to the cancer cells and send out damaging radiation.

Dr. Grace, 34, announced the finding to science writers visiting Roswell Park Memorial Institute during an American Cancer Society tour.

Three and a half years ago, Dr. Grace's son died of leukemia—cancer of the blood. Since then he has thrown himself into cancer research.

The "X" material has been detected in about half of human tumors so far examined, Dr. Grace said.

Just what it is is not yet known, but its nature is being investigated. It could be a protein material.

It was detected in senesitivity tests with guinea pig tissue. Cancer tissue produced an allergic shock reaction in the tissue, while healthy tissues from the same organ of the same person did not.

Batista Overthrow Seen In 2 Weeks by Castro

By CHARLES SCHUMAN

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro predicted to this correspondent the government of President Fulgencio Batista will fall by April 15 after a bloody civil war.

"Blood will flow in the streets within the next two weeks," the bearded, 31-year-old revolutionist said.

He made his statements in the course of two formal interviews and several informal conversations during 17 days I spent in and around the rebel mountain hideaway in eastern Cuba's Oriente Province.

FINAL PHASE

Castro plans to open the final phase of his revolution by paralyzing transportation throughout Oriente Province starting Tuesday. He has threatened "total war" unless Batista resigns by next Saturday.

Castro, who has been fighting a guerrilla war against Batista for nearly 16 months, predicted the government would cave in under the combined pressure of a general strike by the populace and a series of military attacks by his own small armed forces.

No precise date for the strike has been announced, but it is expected to begin during the first days of April.

Squatting on the ground at his camp in the Sierra Maestra range, Castro stroked his bushy brown beard, adjusted horn-rimmed glasses on his nose and took a deep puff on a cigaret.

"Batista is a master of repression," he said intently.

"He'll use soldiers against the strikers and blood will flow in the streets within the next two weeks — the blood of soldiers as well as that of bus drivers who refuse to work, of shopkeepers who refuse to open their stores, of cooks and bakers and office workers."

HARD FIGHT

Lean and hard from months of guerrilla fighting and mountain living, Castro stroked a chicken in his arms as he spoke.

"It will be a hard fight but the people are ready this time," he said.

The Batista regime, for its part, is digging in to withstand what Castro calls "the final phase" of his campaign.

Batista has asked for emergency powers to declare martial law and impose a curfew countrywide. Congress is expected to give them to him Monday. He is gathering a list of employes and their home addresses so troops can be dispatched to the houses of those who heed the general strike call.

Castro's plan is to start the ball rolling in Oriente, easternmost of Cuba's six provinces and cradle of the revolution. He has called for a halt to all land transportation in Oriente starting Tuesday.

With Oriente as an example, he hopes that by the time the General strike is called the entire country will fall in with it.

Run Over by Tractor, Boy Feels All Right

JOLIET, Ill., (AP)—They don't come made of sterner stuff than Dennis Michael Decker, 7.

In St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday he said he felt "pretty good," although the rear wheel of a five-ton tractor driven by his father, Amos, ran over his abdomen Saturday when the machine's clutch failed.

Decker said the boy probably owes his life to the fact that the ground was soft from spring rains.

Turncoat Evasive on Red China

By TILLMAN DURDIN
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

HONG KONG — Larance Sullivan, turncoat American Negro soldier who has lived four years and two months in Communist China, was either unwilling or unable to tell much about it here Sunday. Sullivan arrived in Hong Kong by train at noon en route to the United States. He has given up life in Red China.

Sullivan, 28 years old, served in Korea as a sergeant in the Second Division. He was captured by Communist forces in 1950 and at Panmunjom in January, 1954, rejected an opportunity to be repatriated, choosing instead to go to Communist China.

FACING NEWSMEN

Facing newsmen in his hotel room shortly after his arrival, Sullivan seemed nervous, spoke haltingly and was often incoherent. He said he had gone to Communist China to work, study and "add my voice for peace," and that he was returning home because it was "about time."

He said he had gone to China "In the skin and heart of a Negro" and had been "very happy among soul-stirring and peace-loving people."

He said he had been a lathe operator in Hankow but looked blank and for a moment did not reply when asked what kind of factory or shop he had worked in. Finally he said "spare" parts.

WHEN PRESSED

He said he had been paid "more than sufficient" and at first seemed to indicate that he had been paid by the Red Cross. When pressed he said "the government" had provided the money.

Asked what he had studied, he replied "The international situation, which today really is in a state . . . what . . . ardent stirring for peace in the world."

After another interchange in the same vein Sullivan stood up, said he was tired from traveling since Friday and walked out. As he left he responded to a final question by giving his age and saying his family now lives in Sausalito, Calif.

BLUE SUIT

Sullivan looked well and was dressed in a neat but out-of-style double-breasted blue suit.

Sullivan is one of 21 American Korea war captives who elected to live in Communist China. One has died and eight others beside Sullivan have gone back to the United States.

3 Recovering From Hemlock

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Three little girls who innocently ate the same type poison the ancient Greeks used to kill the philospher Socrates were believed Sunday to be out of danger.

The three apparently ate the root of hemlock, a deadly poison, which they found floating in a stream near their home.

Two of the girls, Beulah Mae Caughron, 7, and her niece, Betty Sue Caughron, 5, were rushed Saturday night to Children's Hospital in Knoxville, after suffering convulsions on returning from outdoor play. The third child, Mary Jane Cole, 7, was treated at her home near Sevierville, where she told her family the three playmates had eaten something which "looked like a small potato" found in the creek.

The girls battled for their lives as physicians frantically searched medical books on poison so they would know how to treat the children. Once the doctors settled on hemlock, they were able to begin treatment.

Tories Rated Favorite As Canada Visits Polls

By RAYMOND DANIELL

OTTAWA—After a six-week campaign of blizzard and blossoms, Canada's voters will decide Monday whether to let Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and the Conservatives continue to govern or give the Liberals under their new leader, Lester B. Pearson, another chance to rule.

That is the overriding issue before the electorate of more than nine million qualified voters, some six and a half million of whom are expected to exercise their franchise. Last spring, when the Liberals were defeated after 22 years in office, the emphasis was on providing strong opposition to the Liberals. This spring stress has been laid on giving the Conservatives a fair chance to show what they could do with a clear majority.

However, in the last fortnight forecasts of a Conservative landslide caused many voters to ask themselves whether such a one-sided victory by the Conservatives would be any better for Canada than the big Liberal majorities at Ottawa since the last war. This change in political climate since the campaign began is the root of Liberals' hopes and Conservative anxiety.

A Gallup poll last Wednesday showed that 51 per cent of Canadians declared their preference for the Conservative Party. Thirty per cent supported the Liberals, 7 per cent the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation and 2 per cent the Social Credit Movement. Ten per cent were still undecided four days before the election. However, the Gallup poll was as wrong about the outcome of last June's election as it was about the Presidential campaign in the United States in 1948.

Unemployment has been an issue in the campaign, each party trying to place responsibility on the other. Diefenbaker has proposed a billion-dollar public works program as a remedy.

The Liberals have attacked the Diefenbaker government's proposed diversion of 15 per cent of Canada's trade from the U.S. to Britain and inviting retaliation from across the border. The implication has been that the imposition of import quotas on Canadian oil was the answer from the U.S.

Refusal of the U.S. State Department to permit a Canadian subsidiary of Ford Motors of the U.S. to fill an order for Communist China for 1,000 automobiles has been attacked by the Conservatives as unwarranted interference in Canadian affairs coupled with a promise to take action to defend Canadian sovereignty.

U.S. Getting Most Radioactive Fallout, Much Is of Red Origin, Expert Says

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—The United States is "the hottest place in the world" in terms of radioactivity in the atmosphere, according to Dr. Willard F. Libby, scientist member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"A major fraction of the fallout in the United States is of Russian origin," Dr. Libby said in a filmed interview with Edward R. Murrow. It was broadcast Sunday by the Columbia Broadcasting System on the "See It Now" television program.

Dr. Libby contended that continuation of nuclear weapons tests was "a risk that we can and should tolerate." The United States, he said, is seeking to make smaller nuclear weapons free of fallout and to fit them to delivery systems by changes in weight and shape.

Dr. Libby did not amplify his observations on the peak rate of radioactivity in the United States.

Radioactive particles in the United States originate from tests in Nevada and are brought to the country by winds from tests in Siberia and the Pacific Ocean.

Dr. Libby said atomic bomb fallout was for the most part sprinkled in a band around the world at the latitude of the explosion. Explosions of hydrogen bombs, which are rarer, disperse fallout all over the world, he said.

On the same program, Dr. J. Laurence Kulp, associate professor of geochmeistry at Columbia University, said children in the United States had .9 units of radioactive Strontium 90 in their bones at present. Adults here have .08 units. Adults in the Southern Hemisphere have only half as much—.04.

Dr. Kulp compared these levels with an internationally recommended limit of 100 units of radiation for the general public and 1,000 for industrial workers. If no more tests occurred after this month, fallout would increase the level of children in the United States to 1.5 units in 1977, he said.

If tests continue at the 1957 rate, then American children will have 10 units in 1977, he added.

Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize scientist of the California Institute of Technology, asserted that fallout from nuclear tests thus far might "mean that about 1,000,000 persons die of leukemia and other diseases than would have otherwise." Their deaths would come 10 to 15 years ahead of what otherwise would be expected.

Dr. Pauling said this was the meaning for the world's 2,500,000,000 inhabitants of statements by Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist, that the nuclear shortened life by an "average" of only two days.

'Watchdog' Committee Seems To Be Stymied

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

The Senate "watchdog" committee appears to be stymied for the moment in its efforts to launch a stem-winding investigation of Gov. Griffin's conduct of the state government.

It appears, more and more, that Griffin's refusal to allot funds for the committee or to allow administration officials to appear before it is preventing a real inquiry from getting rolling.

William M Bates

It remains to be seen if Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook's offer of assistance will be enough to get the investigation off the ground.

Cook's offer seems to be considerably less than the committee wanted. It had asked the attorney general for legal assistance in the conduct of its inquiry and for his "guidance" on whether the committee could employ personnel. The latter amounted indirectly to a request for Cook's opinion on the legality of the committee.

COOK'S AID LIMITED

While Cook offered his personal cooperation and advice, he did not offer to put an assistant attorney general at the disposal of the committee which it would like to have. Nor did he give the committee the "guidance" it sought on the legality of hiring staff personnel. He said this question is "moot and hypothetical at this time."

The lack of staff is one of the major reasons for the committee's present stalemate.

Organizing and running the type of investigation proposed by the Senate committee is a big undertaking. It will require, first of all, a great deal of time-consuming spadework and investigation before the public hearing stage is reached.

Such spadework must either be done by a competent staff or by the members of the committee themselves. While the committee members are serving without pay, none can afford to take the time away from his personal affairs which would be required to do the job right.

ONE MEMBER BUSY

One member of the committee, Sen. Carl E. Sanders of Augusta, is likely to have his hands full during the next few weeks with his re-eletcion fight in Richmond County. Rep. Bernard F. Miles, a close friend of the Griffin administration, is seeking Sanders' seat in the county's May 14 primary.

State funds seem to be out of the question for the remainder of the fiscal year which ends June 30. There seems to be no way Griffin could be forced to make money available from surplus funds to finance the committee's operations.

After July 1, when a new legislative appropriation becomes available, it may be a different story.

The type of staff the committee is seeking to line up was disclosed in the letter to Cook seeking his assistance. The committee said it needs one or more investigators, one or more clerical assistants, a court reporter "and such other help as may be needed."

Sen. William P. Trotter of LaGrange, committee chairman, said several private attorneys and accountants have volunteered their services to the committee. But such volunteer assistance has its drawbacks.

The committee is further hampered by the fact that it does not have subpoena powers. This raises the question of how far it can go in getting information from reluctant sources.

With all these obstacles, it is little wonder that the committee has not gotten very far with its projected investigation. It has held only two meetings during the month it has been in existence. Only one witness has been heard . . . State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr.

The committee may yet find a way to get rolling. Its members are willing. But they lack the proper tools.

Sam Rayburn Puts Blame Where Due

Those were strong words House Speaker Sam Rayburn used in a prepared address Thursday night denouncing certain "rich and powerful opponents" of extending the reciprocal trade program sought by President Eisenhower. They were strong and deserved.

In a slashing attack on "big businessmen" who oppose a program necessary for the nation's future, Mr. Rayburn declared:

"These men, rich and powerful beyond the dimensions of their predecessors, are allegedly capitalists. But their behavior is that of anticapitalists. Hence they are potentially more dangerous to us than Communists among us."

What did Mr. Rayburn mean?

In other addresses the same day before the National Conference for International Trade the meaning was made unmistakably clear by President Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson, Vice President Nixon and a host of others.

Blind crippling of the program, the President said, would endanger the jobs of 4,500,000 Americans. Economic isolationism would result in the end in crippling the American economy, destroying our remaining export markets and threatening our sources of raw materials.

Stevenson declared that failure to extend the program would weaken Western alliances and push the world's underprivileged nations into the arms of the Communists.

It has been a long and continuing fight to gain acceptance of the fact that the United States cannot close its borders to goods from abroad and still expect to sell our products to countries which have no opportunity to earn dollars to pay for them. We're still fighting that battle.

Those who oppose reciprocal trade as a rule are opposed also to foreign military and economic aid. They not only would restrict trade but would stop the substitute for it. They are unable to see that in the economic struggle with the Soviet Union trade and aid are two of our most valuable weapons—weapons Moscow is using well.

The United States cannot remain prosperous or maintain its standard of living without trade—reciprocal trade. Those who would drive us to depression and isolation are indeed "anticapitalists." They are playing the game just as the Communists want it played, inviting Khrushchev to win his battle for world domination—as he has predicted—without firing a shot.

States Should Welcome Highway Sign Controls

The Senate has voted to award cash incentives to states that agree to follow federal standards in regulating billboards along the new interstate highway system.

For that the motoring public can be thankful.

A jungle of signs along the multibillion-dollar network of roads would detract enormously from the beauty and effectiveness of the finished product by obscuring scenery and posing safety hazards.

In the final analysis it will be up to individual states to accept or reject the federal control program.

Surely Georgia and the other states will take advantage of the opportunity to comply at the earliest possible moment. It amounts to being paid for doing something that any state concerned with protecting the natural beauty of its landscape and promoting its tourist industry would want to do with or without federal remuneration.

The ony defect in the Senate bill is a provision that billboard regulations should not apply to sections of new highways built over old road rights-of-way. Thus, approximately 35 per cent of the interstate system could be subject to a maze of signs.

This makes it all the more important that states act to protect the remaining 65 per cent from becoming an outdoor carnival of unsightly billboards.

Polio Shots Should Be Mandatory in Schools

The State Board of Education has under consideration a proposal aimed at having all school systems require that children be vaccinated against polio before entering school.

Present law allows local option in the matter. The arrangement falls way short of accomplishing the desired results.

As Vice Chairman James Peters pointed out to the board, hundreds of thousands of dollars and 20 years of work went into development of Salk vaccine but there is a large number of children in Georgia who have not received shots.

Surgeon General Leroy Burnett has warned of the possibility of serious outbreaks of polio this summer unless vaccination programs are accelerated. Dr. T. F. Sellers, state health director, has issued a similar admonition.

There should be no further dragging of feet in immunization of school children. The State Board of Education should strongly recommend that each school system make polio shots a prerequisite for admission to school.

Even better would be a state law that makes such immunizations mandatory instead of subject to local option.

New U.S. Disease Center Will Be Built at Last

After 10 years of planning and various delays, the federal government has granted final authorization for construction of a U.S. Communicable Disease Center at Emory University.

The facility has been needed for a long time and much of the delay was inexcusable.

The six buildings included in the project will house administrative offices, auditorium, audio-visual unit, infectious disease and virus disease laboratories, a power plant and research facilities.

The center will be equipped to make valuable contributions to medical science. It represents an $8,970,000 investment to benefit mankind and as such is money well spent.

Located on land donated by Emory, the project will greatly enhance Atlanta's reputation as a medical center.

Stevenson Talks Sense To the American People

Elsewhere on this page is a penetrating article by Adlai Stevenson, one of a series contributed by leaders in public life who are friends of Columnist Tom Stokes as a tribute to this popular newspaperman who is now seriously ill.

Stokes will be proud of this Stevenson contribution. The former Democratic candidate for president takes off the gloves in a magnificent condemnation of the Republican Party and the GOP administration. It reminds us of the things he said and the "sense" he talked as he went about the country in two campaigns against impossible odds.

Charging the GOP with deceiving the American people with a campaign of slogans and misrepresentations, Mr. Stevenson says:

"I don't want to recite the familiar litany of foolish words and broken promises—the expenses that were to be cut, the budgets to be reduced, the secret agreements to be denounced, the prices to be stabilized, the schools to be built, the farm surpluses to be eliminated and the great brains they were going to bring to Washington."

He charges the administration has been "hypnotized and sustained by public relations experts" and that it has misled the people in every category of public life.

Thoughtful Americans everywhere will recognize and respond to this splendid challenge issued by a man who rejected the slogans to "talk sense to the American people" and in turn was rejected for a military hero, a good man whose inexperience in politics has been a millstone used by the GOP in a masterpiece of cynicism.

Stevenson tried to tell us all. His article on this page today very well could be a chorus of rebuke from the whole conscience of America.

Here's Chance To Give In True Spirit of Easter

This week brings to a climax the annual effort to aid crippled children and adults through purchase of Easter Seals.

The Georgia Society for Crippled Children and Adults has mailed out thousands of these seals to families all over the state. The campaign has been organized in almost every county and is a most fitting activity for the Easter season.

Contributions through the seals drive go for many uses—patient care, research and rehabilitation as well as providing the tools with which so many devoted people work.

Last year there were 1,655 Easter Seal societies across the country. They helped 132,392 children and 26,114 adults toward rehabilitation and useful lives. The Georgia effort resulted in aid for 1,202 crippled persons.

The drive for funds ends Easter Sunday, April 6. All who are interested in the welfare of their fellow man and in relieving the suffering of those less fortunate are urged to respond in the true spirit of Easter. There are many more who need help than are receiving it today.

Atlantan Charges Steadily Rising Prices Show Something's Phony About Recession

Atlanta—Faced with the necessity of greatly expanding our defense costs, we must give painstaking thought to reducing, not expanding, all other governmental costs—federal, state and local. We cannot afford both.

As to this so-called recession: It is going to end shortly because it was caused by expanded inventories, by over-buying in some circles, by too much debt in others. Who ever heard of steadily rising prices in a recession? The big over-all problem is not recession but inflation.

He Insists Erudite Are Not Eggheads

Atlanta—In editorials from time to time you give the term "egghead" an erroneous connotation, applying it to men and women of learning and culture. The term originated out of necessity for people whose learning comes from books by writers hired to rewrite science to conform to their theories. These books are paid for by various foundations and come from printers—never from publishers.

There is wide difference, indeed, between a person of deep learning and an egghead.

Ike and His Team Peddle Half-Truths

CHICAGO—Politics is essentially an educational process in which people grow to their full stature through participation in great decisions. But people cannot participate in great decisions unless they know the facts. The first condition of a successful democracy is an informed people. It is an indispensable part of the presidential responsibility to make sure the people have the facts, no matter how grim and sobering these facts may be.

There are many dramatic contrasts between the Truman and the Eisenhower administrations—in the sharpness of decision, in the creativity of public policy, in the whole national temper and morale. But perhaps no contrast is more dramatic than the change in the relationship between the government and the people.

That change can be briefly summed up: The Democrats regarded the people as responsible partners, able to take their own share in the labor of public policy; the Republicans regard the people as customers, to be bemused, beguiled and manipulated.

Very early in this administration a high official on the President's staff said: "We're going to merchandise the living hell out of the Eisenhower administration."

And that is precisely what they have done.

These years of Republican rule have been stained by heavy failure in many areas — the excesses of McCarthyism, the disintegration of our alliances, the loss of confidence in us abroad, the decay of our military position and now the decline in our economic vitality.

But perhaps nothing has injured us more or struck so deep at the jugular vein of democracy as the abuse of the people's right to know. This administration's record of systematic and unblushing misrepresentation, concealment and half truth has few precedents in our political history. And what makes it more offensive is that it has all been conducted in an atmosphere of such ostentatious piety.

I don't want to recite the familiar litany of foolish words and broken promises — the expenses that were to be cut, the budgets to be reduced, the secret agreements to be denounced, the prices to be stabilized, the schools to be built, the farm surpluses to be eliminated and the great brains they were going to bring to Washington.

Back in the beginning they fooled the people with talk about "liberating" Eastern Europe, "unleashing" the Formosa Chinese, "rolling back" communism. Well, we have paid a heavy price for these empty, misleading slogans, not only in the satellites but in Western Europe and in the uncommitted nations.

Then they channeled American thinking into purely military concepts, ridiculed the intellectuals, pandered to complacency and encouraged the illusion of American omnipotence. They ignored the progress of Soviet education, concealed the weaknesses of the Allied coalition, misrepresented Russian military strength and political penetration.

As our prestige and influence and confidence declined, they reported every setback, every disappointment, every defeat as a triumph of statesmanship from which we had emerged more respected and invulnerable than ever.

Worst of all, they never stirred, stimulated or spurred the American people. Instead they lulled America into a dangerous slumber from which we were only recently awakened by the shock of Sputnik.

Remember "Operation Candor"—the big project for telling the truth about atomic weapons? Other administrations have regarded candor as a prime obligation of government. It is characteristic that an administration hypnotized and sustained by public relations experts regarded it as an "operation." And it is even more characteristic that, in the end, they dropped the whole idea.

We have been misled from beginning to end about our most vital concerns — about our military strength, about the power of the Communists, about our broad position in the world.

The Democrats will have many powerful issues in the elections this fall. But none, I think, will and should be more fundamental than this one — the restoration of truth to government. For if we Americans know the truth, the facts, the problems, there is in us the wisdom and the strength to meet the problems, to do whatever needs to be done, to face danger as part of achieving destiny.

The Night Light Came to Wabash

The French called the river Ouabache, from the Indian word for "white." That was the color of the river, under the sun, before the lands were cultivated and the silt set in. The French tried to rename the river "the St. Jerome." But the word "Ouabache" meaning "white" stuck. Anglicized the word became Wabash.

Wabash is the river in the song. Wabash is a blues song, too. Wabash is a train, the Wabash Cannonball. Wabash is a college, alma mater of Mike Bender, who sells dairy machinery out of an Atlanta headquarters.

For today's lesson Wabash is a city (pop. 10,700) in Indiana, near Ft. Wayne, not too far from where the Wabash River heads up, across the line in Ohio.

In Wabash, Ind., at 8 p.m. 78 years ago today the switch was pulled turning on the first electric street lights in the world. The city was wanting some kind of street lighting. In Cleveland, Ohio, Charles F. Brush, a coworker of Edison, was looking for a chance to show off a new arc light hooked to a steam dynamo.

City and inventor made a deal. For $2,500 Brush rigged four arc lights from the courthouse tower and put a generator in the basement. He threw the switch.

One who was there said, ". . . . It was as bright as the sun but mild as moonlight."

Wabash saw the light and liked it. The city bought Mr. Brush's light plant.

And speaking of moonlight, Austin, Tex., has it perpetually. Powerful lamps on tall towers bathe the Texas capital in soft light from sundown to sun-up.

By the way, the reason morning comes so soon is that light travels so fast.

Robber on Cross Showed Real Faith

In the few remaining days before Good Friday our minds rehearse once again the varied aspects of our Lord's crucifixion. Great spiritual stimulus is found in the seven words spoken by our Lord from the Cross. Each word has a meaning of great significance. Let us consider today the second word.

Pilate, who could find no fault in Jesus, would have released Him. But the crowd clamored for His crucifixion and Pilate, who was in a precarious position wanting on the one hand to satisfy the requirements of Caesar and on the other hand needing to keep content the unruly people, finally surrendered Jesus to His enemies. And Jesus was led beyond the walls of Jerusalem to Golgotha where His hands were nailed to a cross and His feet were bound. Then the cross was raised.

It was not accidental that the leaders of the people crucified two known criminals with Jesus. By placing the cross of Christ between the crosses of the brigands, they hoped more especially to identify Jesus with the enemies of the people.

Over the central cross was raised a placard with the words, "This is the King of the Jews." This inscription, which announced what we know to be a spiritual truth, was placed there by men who hoped thereby to taunt Jesus further and to blot from the minds of bystanders any remaining glimmer of faith in Him.

One of the robbers, joining perhaps in the jesting of the crowd or perhaps in desperate anguish, shouted to Jesus, "If thou be Christ, save thyself and us." He had lived in defiance of the laws of God and man, but now he hoped that his shameful life should be rewarded by a miraculous escape from punishment.

His words were blunt and harsh, indeed so bitter that the second thief upbraided him. The second thief, who may have heard of Jesus' godliness or who may merely have sensed in the manner of Jesus a quality of goodness that was missing in his own life, replied, "Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss."

Then pleadingly and wistfully he said to Jesus, "Remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom."

It is, I think, beside the point to say that this robber had squandered his life and had missed the deep joys of godly living. It is, I am sure, unworthy to complain that he won life's crown without deserving really to receive it.

The whole point is that God will reach to embrace any man, however unworthy he may be, if he but opens his heart in faith. It was Jesus who said, "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out" (John 6:37).

What Is It That Makes Leaf Green?

Since spring is here and nature is stirring about, this might be as good a time as any to attempt to answer a question put forward in honest innocence by a child of my acquaintance. "Why," she asked, "are leaves green?" A less-than-scientific answer could be, "Well, they are, and that's that."

This sort of folderoy won't do, however, in the age of chlorophyll chewing gum, so here goes with "Uncle Cal's Nature Corner" (liberally propped up with numerous reference works):

The leaf is a factory. This factory has clear walls and inside is a great array of machinery, all green in color. The machinery is chlorophyll, a pigment. Sunlight is the energy which in some mysterious way causes the machinery to turn. Raw materials come into the leaf from the air and from the roots of the plant. These materials are mixed with the sunlight and the chlorophyll to produce sugar, much like that a child puts on his cereal. A large part of this sugar is stored as starch in the plant. Plants with their starches and sugars are the basic food of our world.

One investigator says a single acre of corn makes an average of 200 pounds of sugar per day during a growing season and the total amount of sugar formed during the season amounts to approximately 30 million calories of energy.

If you turned over a leaf and had a microscope at hand, you would notice a large number of pores, or stomata, on the bottom of the leaf. These pores are doors through which carbon dioxide enters the leaf factory from the air outside. A leaf may have as many as a million pores on its underside.

The carbon dioxide mixes in the leaf factory with water which comes up the stem or trunk of the plant from the ground. These raw materials unite with the chlorophyll in the leaf and with the sunlight falling upon it to produce sugar and oxygen. This process is called photosynthesis. It takes invisible energy from the sun and makes energy which you can feel and see and buy in the grocery store. You run and play because leaves are green.

This simplified explanation probably would not gain the enthusiastic approval of Harry J. Fuller and Oswald Tippo, professors at the University of Illinois when they wrote the textbook "College Botany." The professors got the jump on the post-Sputnik period of tougher education when they stated in the preface of their book, published in 1949 by Henry Hold and Co.:

"In writing we have tried to avoid the extremes of a ponderous and obscure literary style and the banal, one-syllable, soap-opera style which is favored by some modern educators. Students will encounter in these pages some non-technical words which will be unfamiliar; to them we pass along the encouragement that there exist no records of permanent or extensive brain injury following the occasional use of a dictionary."

And that certainly is that.

Russians Step Up Propaganda Pitch

WASHINGTON—The preoccupation of this capital with the Soviet Union was never better illustrated than by last week's events. Moscow's good humor man, Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, went to the State Department Wednesday morning followed by reporters all over the place. (They got nothing but smiles).

A little later, the main news the State Department had to announce was that it was getting a new note from the U.S.S.R. on the same old subject.

Meanwhile, Capitol Hill was ringing with testimony about what the Soviet Union had done or was doing or was about to do.

Secretary of State Dulles was arguing for more foreign aid on the ground that the Russians are negotiating agreements with 16 non-Communist countries for $1,600,000,000 in economic aid and 400 million dollars in military aid. Also, he said, our aid program would help our sagging economy.

Coincidentally, the House Foreign Affairs Committee heard from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, that the foreign aid program would have to be carried on or the United States would inevitably be forced back on a "Fortress America" strategy.

Poor Uncle Sam, he had a bad day.

For the last few months Soviet moves, Soviet power, Soviet possibilities, Soviet education, Soviet proposals, Soviet threats and Soviet achievements have dominated the news, and when they have not done so it was usually because of bad news on the home front or squabbling in Britain or war in North Africa.

Secretary Dulles has come back from Manila in a melancholy mood about all this. Wherever he went in Southeast Asia he found that the controlled output of news in Moscow was creating precisely the headlines and the impression the Soviet leaders wanted to create.

To say that he was depressed by all this is a masterpiece of understatement.

There are several things that can be said about this. The Russians do have a natural propaganda advantage. They can control the output of news.

Also, Moscow can and does say one thing one place and another in another, and will say almost anything to stay in the headlines.

Finally, it is true that American newspapers are applying a test of news to the Russians they do not apply to anybody else.

All these things, however, are peripheral. The main thing is that the Soviet Union is moving and the administration isn't.

The heart of the problem is that the Communists are busy building their world and shouting about it. The West is not. It seems for the time being, and has seemed for some time, to be sterile of ideas, frozen in old policies it admits privately are outmoded, but slow to change and loath to explain.

U.S. Launches Attempt To Deport Mrs. Burton

The federal government has ordered deportation proceedings against Mrs. Margaret L. Burton.

William N. Owens of Atlanta, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, signed charges which are to be served on Mrs. Burton Monday at Reidsville State Prison.

A hearing was set for 10:30 a.m., April 17, at the prison where she is serving two to five years on charges of larceny after trust from four Decatur doctors and passing forged checks.

PRISON RELEASE

Mrs. Burton is eligible for prison release in February, 1960. She could not be deported until after completing her prison term, and any pending court action against Mrs. Burton in another state would also take precedence. Three states have placed detainers for her.

The immigration officials charged Mrs. Burton violated the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 by (1) failure to keep the attorney general notified of her address in this country, and (2) conviction of two crimes involving "moral turpitude" and "criminal miscounduct."

Rea P. McKinney of Atlanta, an INS investigating officer, was designated to prosecute Mrs. Burton at the quasi-judicial hearing.

If Mrs. Burton admits to the charges, she will waive right to further appeal. An immigration officer will preside and rule whether she is guilty of the charges. If convicted, she could appeal to the U.S. Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington within 30 days after the hearing.

PICK COUNTRY

Under the law Mrs. Burton could, on conviction, pick the country to which she would be deported. If she had no preference or if the country she selected would not grant a passport, she presumably would be sent to England.

Mrs. Burton, a native of China, is a British national, the Immigration service says. She entered the United States from Canada on July 11, 1929, at Rouses Point, N.Y., immigration records show.

6 Killed On Georgia Highways

Six persons lost their lives on Georgia highways over the weekend.

The State Patrol said Louise McCallum, 30, of Waycross, was killed Sunday when the car in which she was riding hit a culvert and overturned about six miles north of Blackshear on Georgia 121.

Also killed Sunday was Willie James Callaway, 36, of Smithville. The Patrol said the car in which he was a passenger struck a bridge rail 11 miles south of Americus on a county road.

Fern Marilyn Lovelace, 22, and Patricia Lewis, 20, both of Atlanta, were injured fatally Saturday when their car collided with a truck about nine miles west of Athens on U.S. 78.

Other Saturday deaths included:

Roy C. Born, 52, of Buford, whose car struck the rear of a parked vehicle on Georgia 20 in Sugar Hill.

George E. Foster, 61, of Warm Springs.

Five pupils and a teacher from Irwin County High School in Ocilla were injured Sunday in a headon collision while driving home from the Beta Club convention in Atlanta.

Macon hospital authorities said the teacher, Miss Ann Carol Jones, 22, of Ocilla; Jean Nolan, 15, Rte. 1, Alapaha, and Brenda Harris, 16, Ocilla, were held at the hospital for treatment.

Martha Jo Felson, 16, Devaara Felson, 18, and Mary Fay Paulk, 17, all of Ocilla, were treated and released.

Operator of the other car was identified as Jack W. Castellow, 46, of Decatur. Hospital authorities said Castellow suffered a fractured leg and arm and his wife, Gladys, 35, a broken collar bone.

PRETTY HAT FOR KITTY KAT—Betty Jean Clower, 11, decided her two-year-old Persian cat needed a hat for Easter, so she made one. The hat served a double purpose, since Sunday was Kitty's second birthday. Betty Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Clower.

Twin-Engine Plane with 3 Aboard Believed to Have Fallen in Georgia

A twin-engined plane with three persons aboard was believed to have crashed somewhere in Georgia Sunday night, the Civil Aeronautics Administration said.

Joe Fuchs, CAA control tower operator at Macon's Cochran Field, said the pilot radioed he had a low fuel supply and asked for landing clearance.

Fuchs said the pilot acknowledged landing clearance at 5:58 p.m., but the plane did not land at Cochran Field.

The plane left Louisville, Ky., at 1:58 p.m. and was en route to Jacksonville, Fla.

The pilot was identified from the flight plan he filed as Alex Adonatis of Indianapolis, Ind. The number of the plane was N3344P.

Adonatis was believed to have his two daughters aboard, but this has not been confirmed.

Swiss Weathermen Found 80 Pct. Right

BERN, Switzerland (UP)—More than four out of every five weather forecasts made by the Swiss Federal Meteorological Institute in 1957 turned out to be correct, the government reported Sunday.

Fugitive Gives Up Here After His Mother's Plea

An Atlanta youth has answered his mother's plea to surrender to police.

Richard Salisbury, 20, wanted by the FBI, and Atlanta and DeKalb County Police on charges ranging from armed robbery to passing worthless checks, walked into the Atlanta Police Department's Detective Bureal Sunday night and said:

"I'm tired of running . . . I want to give myself up."

Detective Ben Holland recognized Salisbury as he opened the door and hand-cuffed the man and whisked him off to a cell.

Salisbury, of 796 Flat Shoals Way, SE, was accompanied by his lawyer and an uncle, Charles Rush Bessant of Hapeville.

The uncle had put his home up as security for a $3,000 bond for Salisbury when the nephew left town. Salisbury's mother, Mrs. Christine Salisbury of Marietta, who is suffering from a heart condition which has worsened apparently from worry over her son, had asked him to give up so the bond wouldn't be forfeited and the uncle lose his house. The surrender came in time to save the home.

Police narrowly missed apprehending Salisbury last Wednesday in Cincinnati, Ohio, when Herbert Bailey, 21, identified by police as Salisbury's confederate, was arrested. Bailey is an Atlantan.

The $3,000 bond released Salisbury in December when he was charged with passing worthless checks. He and Bailey were indicted on robbery charges by the Fulton County Grand Jury in early February.

Bailey and Sailsbury were charged with robbing at knifepoint a 77-year-old man, Crampton Waters of 1261 Fowler St., Northwest.

Capt. T. L. Wayne of DeKalb County Police said Sunday night Salisbury was wanted on suspicion of armed robbery.

STI Marks Its Tenth Anniversary

Southern Technical Institute, the first accredited technical institute in the South, lighted the 10th birthday cake last week.

It was 10 years ago, at the beginning of the spring quarter, 1948, that Southern Tech opened its doors as a unit of the Engineering Extension Division of Georgia Tech, at Chamblee.

The school has grown from an initial enrollment of 116 students to a present enrollment of over 800. More than 1,500 of STI's graduates are now employed in industry as technicians, supervisors, inspectors, managers and engineering aides.

The celebration was called "The slide-rule anniversary" by the professors of the school in honor of a technician's most important instrument.

L. V. Johnson, director, says, "Southern Tech signifies something new in education—the marriage of education and industry. The young men and women who have earned their Associate in Science degrees at Southern Tech are playing vital roles in both defense and peacetime production."

Johnson said STI graduates average more than $375 starting salary on their first jobs.

Crow Haters Shoot Down 33 Birds and Dot Stretch of North Expressway with Victims

Someone declared war on crows over the weekend and dumped their victims along the Northeast Expressway between Clairmont and Swallowford roads.

The dead crows, 33 in all, were tossed along the Expressway apron in a staggered line for some 400 yards.

One crow, tangled in a stout cord, indicated that the killers probably tied him to a tree to lure others into the shooting trap.

Nothing Missing At Open Bank

A policeman checking his beat Sunday afternoon found the front door open at the Citizens and Southern National Bank, 3005 Peachtree Rd., NE.

Patrolman B. L. Calhoun called W. D. Howell of 510 Echota Dr., the bank office manager. Calhoun quoted Howell that nothing was missing.

"Someday you will collect taxes from it"

MORE THAN A CENTURY AGO, William E. Gladstone, the prime minister of Great Britain, was looking at Michael Faraday's laboratory experiments on the principle of the electric generator.

"Will this ever be of any use to mankind?" Gladstone asked.

"Someday you will collect taxes from it," Faraday replied.

This prediction holds true in America. Since its beginning in 1882, the electric industry has been paying taxes in ever-increasing amounts.

In Georgia, nearly 20 cents of every dollar we receive in payment for electric service goes for local, state and federal taxes. These taxes represent our largest single item of expense. For every dollar of payroll, we pay $1.31 in taxes. For every dollar spent for fuel used in generating plants, $1.16 is paid in taxes.

Our tax bill for 1957, totaling nearly $25 million, helps to meet the cost of government and to pay for the many services it provides every citizen.

Jack Paar 'Warmed Over' On Mediocre Chevy Show

By J. P. SHANLEY

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Some viewers who watched Jack Paar Sunday evening on the Chevy Show may not have been familiar with his work on his regular late night program.

They are not likely, on the strength of what they saw, to change their living habits drastically soon. For Mr. Paar, using some warmed over routines from his established series, plus a new idea or two, provided no compelling reason for anyone to lose sleep over him.

Most of the rest of the hour was not much above Paar. The participants included Polly Bergen, who looked decorative, and Andy Williams, who looked mournful. Their songs were not memorable.

Fortunately, Ethel Merman was there, too, singing with her customary authority and verve. Without her the telecast would have been a dull party, indeed.

As I See It

Top Rating Services Don't Get Together

By PAUL JONES

There seems to be a big difference of opinion over which shows belong on the Top Ten list.

Until very recently the two top rating services — Trendex and Nielsen — have been rather consistent in their ratings Most of the same shows were listed on both, although the order in which they were listed varied somewhat, from time to time.

Jones

Now, lo and behold, the two rating services have come up with almost completely different lists which agree only on one thing: Gunsmoke is still the most watched show in television.

Otherwise, the rating services each have put some brand-new entries on their ledger and both fail to recognize some shows which have made the other's list.

Trendex, for instance, places Gunsmoke on top, then Bob Hope, Perry Como, the Price Is Right, Restless Gun, all NBC-TV shows, Maverick and Wyatt Earp (ABC) Danny Thomas (CBS) and Wells Fargo and Loretta Young (NBC) in the Top Ten.

Compare that list with the one composed by Nielsen: Gunsmoke, Wells Fargo, Have Gun, Will Travel; Danny Thomas; Restless Gun; I've got a Secret; Wyatt Earp; Wagon Train; Jerry Lewis; G.E. Theater.

But to make matters more confusing, Nielsen does still another survey which is based on what the trade calls "Total Audience" and this gives an altogether different picture.

In "Total Audience" the the shows stack up this way: Gunsmoke, Perry Como, Wells Fargo, Show of the Month, Jerry Lewis, Wagon Train, Cheyenne; Have Gun, Will Travel; Sugarfoot, Shirley Temple.

In other words, the rating services have a chart to fit almost any situation — or a chart to please almost any sponsor or network.

You take your pick.

GISELLE MACKENZIE'S final show of her series was her best.

I'm sure it was intentional—but she certainly put everything she had into her finale. The songs, her dancing, her piano work, her little informal scene with her husband were all delightful. There was a warmth and sincerity about what she had to say.

I thought as I watched the show how foolish it was of the network and her sponsors to let her go in the middle of a season which hasn't been distinguished with too many hits.

A talent as prominent as that of Giselle MacKenzie isn't going to go unnoticed. That is for sure. But, it seems such folly to let personalities interfere with good programming.

After all, the only thing the televiewer is interested in is entertainment and Giselle MacKenzie certainly gave us that.

HOW HUMILIATING must be the present confab between network and sponsor over the status of the Frank Sinatra show.

Sinatra is a star who has won the Academy Award's highest honor for acting. He is a singer who has at least two million sales records this year. He is a personality of unquestioned ability.

Frank Sinatra

Yet, he hasn't been able to solve the television riddle. Baffled once before, Sinatra gave up TV and confined his activities to movies and records.

His current season in television has been anything but first rate. He has tried several formats. None of them has seemed to work.

Now the trade magazines are saying Sinatra is not sure whether HE wants another season in TV.

Wouldn't it be more factual to say: The people are not sure THEY want Sinatra back for another season?

Spinal Column Is Like Switchboard

The spinal column can be likened to a telephone switchboard because it functions in much the same way.

As a matter of fact, it functions exactly in the same way, sending messages along the nerves to every part of the body. As in the telephone switchboard, when the "wires" get out of order or get short - circuited, the messages do not go through.

Dr. Grady Lake

So it is with the human body. When the "wires," which in the case of a human being are the nerves, cannot do their job then trouble develops and disease results.

Through the healing art of chiropractic practiced at The Lake Clinic, the "wires" can be made to function normally and the result is that the disease clears up.

You can only be sure that the messages carried by your nerves are functioning normally by getting a chiropractic checkup in a modern and scientific fashion.

CAR STRUCK ON NORTHSIDE DRIVE BY VEHICLE SUSPECT DROVE

Atlantan Had Badge But Is Suspected of Being Escapee

Police Badge Found on Atlantan, 24, Seized in Crash and Believed Escapee

A 24-year-old Atlantan with a policeman's badge but suspected by police of having escaped from a Florida jail was overtaken here after a car he had rented collided with another Sunday night.

The man and four other persons were injured in the crash at 2980 Northside Dr., NW.

Police said the suspect, John W. Lewis of a Carr street, NW, address was arrested 30 minutes after the wreck. Lewis ran into a wooded area, blood streaming from his face from injuries suffered in the wreck.

Patrolman Lamar F. Harris said Lewis had on his person a Coral Gables, Fla. policeman's badge.

Coral Gables police said the badge posed a mystery, as there was no record of any badge by that number being lost. Patrolman E. H. Odum, who caught Lewis, said Lewis told him he got the badge from an Atlanta boy whose name he could not remember.

Lewis was treated at Grady Hospital for facial lacerations and jailed on suspicion of being an escapee from a Florida jail, Harris said.

Lewis was quoted by Harris as "telling an illogical and fishy story which didn't really make sense."

Police reported that witnesses said Lewis was speeding an estimated 95 miles an hour on Northside drive when he lost control. The car skidded into the side of an automobile driven by Mrs. Carolyn S. Howell, 39, of 3727 Tuxedo Rd., NW. Then Lewis' car crashed into a utility pole and bounced some 50 feet away before coming to a halt.

Mrs. Howell, given emergency treatment at Grady Hospital for facial lacerations and back injuries, was moved to Piedmont Hospital for plastic sugery, police said.

Four passengers in the Lewis car were treated at Grady Hospital. They were identified as Miss Marilyn Middlebrooks, 20, of 604 Stokeswood Ave., SE, facial lacerations and internal injuries; Harold Prewett, 23, of 550 Stewart Ave., Marietta, internal injuries; Miss Barbara Ann Smith, 18, of 300 Norwood Ave., NE, fractured leg and wrist and face cuts.

Cartersville Gets Grant For Housing

Plans for the erection of 60 new public housing units in Cartersville have been announced by Mayor Charles A. Cowan and Housing Authority Director Thomas W. Simpson Jr.

The announcement came following telegrams from Sen. Herman Talmadge and Rep. Erwin Mitchell informing the city that U.S. Public Housing Commissioner Charles E. Slusser is ready to sign a financial aid contract for the 60 units.

Ten of the units will be for white occupancy and 50 will be for Negro families, said Mayor Cowan.

Atlanta University Gives Awards at Art Exhibition

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

Artists from Chicago, Los Angeles, Atlanta and Akron, Ohio, won top honors Sunday as Atlanta University's 17th annual exhibitions of paintings, sculpture and prints opened in the Exhibition Gallery of Trevor Arnett Library.

Irene V. Clark of Chicago received $250 as her oil landscape, "Five Centuries Ago," won the John Hope Purchase Award. The $300 Atlanta University Purchase Award for the best oil portrait went to James Watkins of Akron for his "Negro Man."

In sculpture, the $250 Atlanta U. Purchase Award was won by Guy L. Miller Jr., of Los Angeles for his work entitled "Character." In water colors, June Hector of Atlanta won $125 for her "Wild Flowers" and in prints, Barbara Gallon of Tallahassee won $25 for "Abstraction."

The exhibition, which will continue through April 27, will be open to the public from 2-5 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays and from 4-6 p.m. Sundays.

"These exhibitions are held each year to stimulate interest among Negro artists," said Dr. Rufus E. Clement, Atlanta U. president.

Minister Repeats Last Sermon FDR Heard Before His Death

By KAY McLEOD

The last sermon heard by Franklin D. Roosevelt—at Warm Springs on Easter Sunday, 1945, just 12 days before his death—was preached by the same minister from an Atlanta pulpit Sunday.

The minister, Dr. William Childs Robinson, repeated the sermon at the request of his congregation at Pryor Street Presbyterian Church, where he is supply pastor. He is now, as he was then, a professor at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur.

The sermon was entitled "God Incarnate For Suffering Men."

A few days after the Easter, 1945, service, President Roosevelt wrote a note of thanks to Dr. Robinson.

That note was dated April 11, 1945. It was postmarked 8:30 a.m., April 12, 1945, the day Roosevelt died at Warm Springs.

The sermon began with the words: "As a Nation we are standing on the edge of a great victory."

The United States was indeed on the verge of a victory President Roosevelt did not live to see.

There were many references to suffering and death in that sermon.

The president was suffering that Sunday morning, says Mrs. Robinson. "I sat in the pew right behind him and watched them roll his wheelchair into the chapel and lift him into the pew. He looked as if he were unable to move a muscle to help himself.

"My husband used the term 'my friend' referring to Christ. You know 'my friend' was one of Roosevelt's favorite phrases in his radio broadcasts. Everytime my husband said that, the sweetest smile passed over the president's face," she said.

Referring to death, Dr. Robinson said in his sermon: "The ever-blessed God became incarnate that He might suffer the pangs of our torn flesh. The ever active Creator became a man that He might be susceptible of the creature's fears and tears."

The service at Pryor Street Church this Sunday morning followed very closely the order of worship used on Easter Sunday, 1945.

One of Roosevelt's favorite hymns, "God So Loved The World" was sung during both services.

At the end of the services, Dr. Robinson prayed for "our Armed Forces" and the presidents of the United States, Roosevelt then, and Eisenhower today.

Jesus Ejects Merchants from the Temple

tion was to draw the lines more clearly between Jesus and His antagonists: "And the chief priests and scribes heard it and sought a way to destroy him" (Mark 11:18).

You see, Jesus had not only challenged a convenient custom of Temple life. He had not only drawn forth the admiration of the silent multitudes. He had actually struck at the priests' worthiness to be religious leaders.

There is hardly a person more vicious than one who determinedly clings to a position he knows to be insecure. The antagonists of Jesus were incensed. They took counsel to destroy Him. The lines became clearly drawn.

The disciples, who heretofore may have been indefinite in their loyalty, were now forced to choose. They would be found on one side or the other. Have we not found ourselves in such situations, when the issues are plainly before us? It is in such times as these, when the general principle becomes concrete in actual life, that we are most severely tested. Up on the screen of life is clearly seen the undeniable demand of God.

It is a time to stand and say: "We are on the Lord's side, Savior, we are Thine."

The cleansing of the Temple meant the establishment of our Lord's authority. This was more than a passing incident, more than another ripple on the sea of life that was Jerusalem. Jesus had said, "The sabbath was made for man, not man for the sabbath; so the Son of man is lord even of the sabbath" (Mark 2: 27-28). He had claimed authority over the Day which the Temple had been built to honor. Now His authority is expressed in the Temple itself.

That night there must have been an excited conclave of priests, scribes and elders. The next day they would query Jesus: "By what authority are you doing these things?" (Mark 11:28). The authority of Jesus is grounded in Himself. And concerning Himself, Jesus seems reluctant to tell, but quick to ask: "Who do you say that I am?" (Matt. 16: 16).

What is your answer to this question? What will be your response to the authority of Christ?

VILLA RICA, GEORGIA-1957

Disaster without warning! On Thursday, December 5th, a shattering explosion rocked the mid-morning quiet of the town of Villa Rica, Georgia. Four buildings in the very center of town rose from their foundations and collapsed in fiery ruins. In an instant 12 persons died, scores were injured, and property damage ran to untold thousands of dollars.

Immediately, calls went out for help. In Atlanta the Red Cross moved quickly into action, dispatching a rescue team, blood, and medical supplies. These were soon followed by a mobile canteen and more workers who remained on the scene until the fires grew cold and the last victims received proper care.

Disaster seldom announces itself, but the Red Cross must be prepared to meet it whenever and wherever it strikes. Last year unforeseen disasters took an unprecedented toll, and now the financial resources of the Red Cross are at an all time low. They must be replenished, or the Red Cross will be severely handicappd in its work. Give now . . . give generously and help keep the Red Cross ready and on the job for you. Remember, you may be the next to need a helping hand from your Red Cross!

REVIVAL

O Lord, revive Thy work in the midst of the years.
—Habakkuk 3:2

BELIEVING in God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit—holy, sovereign, eternal—and drawn by the never-failing cords of His love and mercy, we cry out with Habakkuk, "O Lord, revive Thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy." And with the great apostle, we pray: "That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His suffering," Philippians 3:10.

ACKNOWLEDGING our sins of commission and omission — our disobedience, our forgetfulness, our preoccupation, our selfishness, our ingratitude—we pray forgiveness, restoration and acceptance. We plead the promise:

If My people, which are called by My Name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.
II Chronicles 7:14

THEREFORE, we unite as individuals and churches in a two-week season of prayer and humiliation, April 13-27, assembling ourselves in earnest expectation of revival and renewal, trusting His grace to be manifest in daily discipleship and in the salvation of lost souls. We fraternally invite all fellow-believers to join us in prayer for revival in our own hearts and in the hearts of God's people everywhere.

Ping Pong and Saddles

MIAMI—Among professional athletes, jockeys are the smallest, richest and most relaxed. For example William John Hartack Jr. tuned up for the Florida Derby Saturday afternoon by beating John Edwin Pope in a ping pong match.

No one takes racing more seriously than Bill Hartack, who annually earns more than $300,000, but like most jockeys he has a knack of remaining at ease until the chips are down.

Outlar

In fact a visitor to the jockey quarters wouldn't realize that Gulfstream was pitching its biggest racing party of the year. Hartack, who had cancelled a mount in the second race, was playing cards with Steve Brooks and some of the boys.

Owen Headley was sharpening his pool game and Manuel Gonzalez was outracing an opponent on the ping pong table. Over in a corner of the room, Willie Shoemaker and Eddie Arcaro were chatting.

Hartack and Ted Williams have something in common, for they agree sports writers are dull company. However, Pope, once a member of the Constitution sports stable and now on the Miami Herald staff, is one of the few writers who enjoys Hartack's friendship.

"See you in a minute," Hartack said when he spotted Pope. "Let me finish this hand."

While Hartack was shuffling his cards, we strolled over to Willie Shoemaker, who also prefers to be called Bill.

"You seem mighty relaxed before a big race," someone said. "Aren't you nervous?"

"Not at all," Shoemaker replied. "Naturally you like to win the big ones, but I ride them all alike. No, I don't feel any extra pressure before such a race as the Derby."

Hartack, clad only in boots and britches, left the card table.

"Why aren't you riding?" Pope inquired.

"I just decided to take it easy until the Derby," Hartack answered.

—A Keen Handicapper Who Doesn't Wager

There was no mention of his upcoming engagement with Tim Tam against 10 contenders, and Hartack couldn't have been calmer had he been awaiting a claiming race at Sunshine Park.

He challenged Mr. Pope to a ping pong match and soundly thrashed the writer.

In fact, Pope was no more of a contender than nine of the 10 horses in the Florida Derby.

However, the victory over Pope came close to being Hartack's only visit to the winner's circle during the afternoon. Lincoln Road almost turned the Derby into a one-horse race, but Hartack got Tim Tam up in time to cop the purse.

Hartack and Calumet's Jimmy Jones were as surprised as the two-buck bettors when Lincoln grabbed the lead and held it until the final 50 yards.

Jones had completely overlooked the 75-to-1 shot (last flash on the mutuel board Saturday, 70). He had expected Grey Monarch to provide the stiffest challenge.

Hartack, a keen handicapper, had underrated the winless Lincoln. Hartack handicaps every field in which he rides to help map out the race. But the loot he gets from the mutuel windows isn't cashed on winning tickets, for Hartack doesn't bet on the beeties. Ironically, he did bet before he became a jockey.

Certainly there was no reason to fear Lincoln Road. The Miami Beach-owned colt had won only one race this year, and was advertised as the kind who doesn't care for long routes.

But the son of With Pleasure broke on top and jockey Gordon Glisson gave him a free rein. Glisson later explained that he thought Lincoln Road would have held on if he hadn't lurched to his right and broken stride in the stretch.

Glisson said that he wasn't gunning for the lead in the early going, but the others were holding up so he gave Lincoln Road the throttle. And, of course, the colt barely ran out of gas.

—Arcaro May Skip the Kentucky Show

The jockey room, almost vacant a couple of hours earlier, was crammed with writers after the race. Hartack, of course, was the center of attention.

A surly citizen when he loses, Hartack is a genial host when he wins, particularly if the race is worth $79,000 to the owners. Such a sum in the Calumet bank means that Hartack's slice will be at least $7,900.

The 25-year-old Hartack is making a monopoly out of this Derby business. Saturday's triumph was his third in a row. He has won two straight Florida Derbies with Calumet's Gen. Duke and Tim Tam. And he was aboard Iron Liege in the Kentucky Derby.

Hartack will shoot for the roses with Tim Tam this year. Asked what he thought about Tim's chances at Churchill Downs, Hartack replied, "I'm not worried about any race if Tim Tam is fit for it, and he's fit right now."

There was nothing exciting about Tim Tam's time (1:49 1/5) in the Florida, but trainer Jimmy Jones wasn't perturbed.

"You don't worry about the time when you beat the other horses," Jones said. "What are my plans for Tim Tam? Well, I'm shipping him to Lexington Wednesday and what he does next depends on how he's doing."

Meanwhile the wealthy Mr. Hartack will take a vacation and resume riding at Keeneland around April 20.

There may be a familiar face missing in the jockey quarters at Churchill Downs, for Eddie Arcaro intimates that he won't be there.

Arcaro explained to friends that it doesn't look as though he'll be able to get on one of the leading contenders. And, of course, he's been to too many Derbies just to go along for the ride.

The big match at Louisville will feature Tim Tam and Silky Sullivan. But Bill Shoemaker, who'll ride Silky, thinks Martin's Rullah deserves considerable attention. In Mr. Shoemaker's own words, Martin's Rullah has "a belluva shot in the Kentucky Derby."

Shoemaker, who came in fourth on the colt Saturday, said his mount stumbled on the break, forcing him to circle the field. Arcaro had no explanation for Whitley, other than the colt simply didn't run. Excluding Tim Tam and Lincoln Road, that description fits the other nine entries in the Gulfstream feature.

Johnson Ties Palmer at 68

Playoff Set Monday For Azalea Crown

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer and outsider Howie Johnson matched closing four under par 68s Sunday to tie for first place in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament with 282 totals.

They'll play off for top money of $2,000 over 18 holes at 9 a.m. (EST) Monday.

Johnson, 32-year-old former insurance man who has been a professional only two years, and Palmer, 1954 National Amateur champion who last week won the St. Petersburg, Fla., Open, passed the faltering leaders after first Dow Finsterwald and then George Bayer were unable to hold the advantage.

Bulky Billy Casper moved into third place at 286, four shots off the top pair, to win $1,200.

Johnson, who registers from Glenwoodie, Ill., outside of Chicago, has never won a major tournament. His best finish on the tour was a third at St. Paul last summer.

Palmer, who plays from Latrobe, Pa., is going on to the Augusta, Ga., Masters Classic opening Thursday. Johnson has not qualified for a bid to the blue ribbon event.

A score of 300, highest payoff of the year, was good enough to share in the 30 money positions with a closing 76 and finished at 287 in a four-way tie for fourths with Finisterwald, Wall and Roberto De Vicenzo of Mexico City.

Bayer shot himself out of it

Howie Johnson, 74-68-72-68—282, and Arnold Palmer, 66-73-75-68—282 (play off for first place tomorrow, winner to get $2,000, loser $1,500); Billy Casper Jr., 69-70-74-73—286, $1,200; George Bayer, 69-73-69-76—287, $862.50; Roberto de Vicenzo, 74-70-70-73—287, $862.50; Art Wall Jr., 70-71-71-75—287, $862.50; Dow Finsterwald, 67-70-75-75—287, $862.50; Doug Ford, 70-74-71-73—288, $675; Jay Hebert, 71-69-75-73—288, $675.

Bill Nary, 70-77-70-73—290, $575; John Ruedi, 72-74-72-72—290, $575; Jim Ferree, 76-72-71-72—291, $450; Billy Maxwell, 72-72-70-74—291, $450; Bob Goalby, 69-74-75-73—291, $450; Mike Fetchick, 75-74-72-72—293, $350; Jerry Barber, 76-74-74-70—294, $263.34; Mike Souchak, 72-75-73-74—294, $263.33; Tony Lama, 70-72-76-76—294, $263.33; Don Fairfield, 72-74-75-75—296, $205; Dave Ragan, 70-77-75-74—296, $205.

Bob Hill, 71-77-77-72—297, $175; Bob Wylie, 74-71-76-76—297, $175; Lionel Hebert, 77-72-74-74—297; $175; Bill Parker, 76-76-75-70—297, $175; Bob Toski, 73-76-74-75—298, $135; John Pott, 73-79-77-69—298 $135; Bob Rosburg, 77-74-71-76—298 $135; Bert Weaver, 72-79-73-74—298; $135; Al Smith, 74-76-72-77—299, $110; John Cleary, 72-77-74-77—300, $33.34; John McMullin, 73-78-77-300, $33.33; Henry Ransom, 77-74-75-74—300, $33.33.

Bates Sees 3 Crax Ready for Southern

Cave, Riddle, O'Donnell Get Skipper's AA Okay

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—They tell Buddy Bates there is a silver lining in the outlook for the Atlanta Crackers, but he admits he can't see through those angry clouds.

Those figurative clouds are just as authentic to the Atlanta skipper as the real ones that wept on Jacksonville and "weathered out" the Crackers' Sunday exhibition baseball joust with Salt Lake City.

The only Sabbath try at levity that a gloomy-as-the-weather Bates could muster came in an answer to the question, "What players on the current roster do you feel are set to play Southern Association ball when the season opens?"

"Paul Cave, Buck Riddle, Jack O'Donnell," he flashed with a weakish little grin that said, in effect, "there's more truth to that than I want to admit to myself."

Bates, whose club will tangle in a Monday double header with Wichita, starting at 10 a.m., in an effort to make up for lost time, feels that the catching and outfield situations are critical. He feels that the entire infield, except for first base, is a question mark.

And, with the season opener in Birmingham only 12 days distant, the Crackers have only two pitchers (Cave and O'Donnell) and an infielder (veteran Sammy Meeks) of known Class AA quality.

With Bob Montag and Roy Hawes likely to "open" the season in the stands and/or on the injured list, the outfield has no more shape than a debutante in a sack dress.

Milwaukee and Wichita officials say the "here comes help" sign will burst over the horizon in the days ahead. But until and unless it does, here is the general Cracker outlook:

CATCHING—No first-stringer of proven ability on hand. None cited on Milwaukee or Wichita rosters. Wayne Cummings, assigned to the Crackers Saturday, has good arm, catches well and has hit consistently in spring games. Is question mark, having been out of pro ball for two years after fair year at Evansville. Sore-armed Bob Ueck-

TOGETHER AT NORTH FULTON SUNDAY, THEY'LL BE IN THE LINEUP OF MASTER'S TOURNEY
(L-R), Pre-Classic Favorite Ken Venturi, Three-Time Winner Jimmy Demaret and Amateur Harvie Ward

Venturi's 69 Paces Pro Team By Ward and Goodloe, 2-1

Kaye Swayed, Quit at Ninth

By BERT PRATHER

Ken Venturi, the most exciting young man on the golfing scene today, did nothing to change his statu.. as Masters favorite in the "Masters Preview" Sunday afternoon at North Fulton Golf Club.

Ken, winningest pro on the circuit, shot a two-under-par 33-36—69 over a heavy track as he and genial Jimmy Demaret trimmed amateurs Harvie Ward and Dynamite Goodloe Jr. 2 and 1.

Swing and Sway dance man Sammy Kaye was a member of the amateur combine for the first nine holes, but had to leave after nine holes to catch a plane. Sam didn't help on a hole, but did great at the gate for the sponsoring Multiple Sclerosis Society.

A crowd of 5,000, surprisingly big for the threatening beginning which turned into a steady soaker as the second nine started, got a good idea of how the 26-year-old sophomore pro sharpshooter from San Francisco has been able to pocket more cash than fellow PGA tourists thus far this campaign.

Venturi didn't bogey a hole until the 13th where his wood second-landed just short of the left-hand trap and his wedge left him a putt of some 15 feet. This five was his only bobble of the round.

He picked up birdies on three, six and 17, and missed getting another when a short putt strayed off line on the long par two.

Ken's shot on the 220-yard, par-three third left him only five feet beyond and to the left of the cup. He rammed it down to gain the lead which he and Demaret never relinquished though they were squared again on the short No. 5 when Goodloe knocked in an 18-foot deuce.

The Frisco Kid grabbed the lead back for keeps with his curling 25-footer on No. 6 for his second bird.

Demaret, one of the grandest guys in golf and a three-time Masters king, grabbed a birdie three on No. 8 to put his team 2-up, but Dynamite came through with a birdie four on the long 10th.

Dynie had to do it here for partner Ward had hit the ditch and picked up. The rotund Valdostan, former State Amateur champion, slugged out one of his whistling drives, then hit a one iron to the right of the green from where he was up and down in two.

The teams halved the next six holes before Venturi put the clinchers on with a birdie four on No. 17. Everyone had shots at birdies here, but the rain was

Indians Lose Wertz, Game

The Cleveland Indians, ruined by injuries in last year's American League race, were belted again by the jinx Sunday when first baseman Vic Wertz suffered a fractured ankle which will sideline the veteran for nine or 10 weeks.

Wertz, 33, the slugger who beat polio two years ago and was No. 2 among the AL's runs batted in leaders with 105 last season, was hurt when his spikes caught in the dirt as he slid into second base. The injury came in the third inning of a 12-10 exhibition defeat by the San Francisco Giants at Tucson, Ariz.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Orioles 2-1 in 12 innings at Scottsdale, Ariz., in the only other game played.

PGA Picks Wininger and Ragan To Complete Field for Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The field for the 22nd Masters Golf Tournament was completed Sunday as chairman Cliff Roberts announced that Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., have been invited.

Roberts said the PGA nominated them on the "basis of their scoring records on the winter circuit. This in accordance with our qualification regulation No. 16 which entitles the PGA to nominate two players not previously qualified."

Meanwhile, some golfers got in very little practice as it rained hard all day. Several braved the weather to shoot nine holes and Sam Snead, a three-time Masters champion, toured the full 18. He didn't keep score, he said, because he wasn't playing too well.

Two of the foreign entries also toured the entire 18. Floyd Van Donck of Belgium had a 69, including a double bogey 5 at the 16th. Gary Player of South Africa birdied three of the first four holes and No. 9 to make the turn in 33, but did not keep score on the remainder.

Dale Morey, Indianapolis amateur, had a 71 over the 6,980-yard Augusta National course.

Ben Hogan, Masters titlist in 1951 and 1953, had a front nine 34. Cary Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum had 37s.

The two Japanese entries, Torakishi (Pete) Nakamura and Koichi Ono, looked the course over for the first time from the clubhouse, but did not play.

The Masters gets under way Thursday with approximately 115 entries expected to tee off. The field is to be cut to the low 40 and ties at the end of 36 holes or the low 41 and ties if there are no deadlocks at 40.

Braves Buy Littlefield

BRADENTON, Fla., (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves said Sunday they have acquired southpaw Dick Littlefield from the Chicago Cubs in a cash deal. No price was mentioned.

Littlefield will report Monday to the Braves, who seek to bolster their southpaw staff which now has only one dependable performer, Warren Spahn. The 32-year-old Littlefield won two and lost three games for the Cubs last season. He pitched 66 innings in 1957, striking out 51 batters and walking 37. He had an earned run average of 5.32.

Hoad Battles Gonzales Here In Racquet-Tight Net Tour

Pancho Owns 2-Match Edge

By MICKEY LOGUE

Sleepy-eyed Lew Hoad, the deadliest racquet Down Under, continues a cross-country crossfire against the fastest serve alive Monday night at the Big Dome.

Powerful Pancho Gonzales, pursuing a fourth professional tennis tour title that only Jack Kramer has attained before him, takes a two-match edge into competition that has carried the contestants half way around the world in 48 playing days.

Hoad's slender 25-23 deficit represents the smallest margin Gonzales ever has owned this deep into 100-match jousting for rulership of the tennis realm.

After dropping far behind early in the tour, Gonzales has captured the lead on the wings of a remarkable winning streak. During one stretch, he won 13 of 16 matches. Why Pancho's big burst?

Tony Trabert, who lost the tour to Gonzales two seasons ago, and Hoad had a few poignant answers Sunday afternoon, which they planned to make a day of rest after six successive nights of tennis.

"Gonzales has been playing hell out of the game the last three weeks," Hoad said. "He got behind, got mad and has really buckled down. His serving has been excellent. I haven't been playing badly."

"I think Gonzales is playing just as well now as he did against me," the personable Trabert put in, "but he didn't start off playing the tennis he did in that tour. For one thing, he wasn't in shape, and now he is."

Does Gonzales seem to be concentrating on a weakness in Hoad's court armor?

"I don't think so," replied Hoad, a 24-year-old Australian.

"He's just concentrating on getting the last point," grinned trabert.

However, Hoad admitted Pancho's big serve, once officially clocked at 112 m.p.h., is the tennis king's No. 1 weapon.

"His serve is clicking now," Hoad said. "He's blowing that thing in there so hard that when he does miss with the first one, it surprises me so much that he usually 'ahses' me with the second.

(The ahses is pure Australian.)

"He has another advantage with that serve. It's so hard and consistent that I'm ready to swing on each, and sometimes I hit bad balls. But I guess I get a serve in now and then, too."

Travelers with the tour say Hoad's serve is as fast in the add court, and nearly as fast in the deuce.

Trabert will play Pancho Segura, the clowning Latin who is most anyone's equal for one set, in a preliminary duel. Trabert and Hoad team against the Panchos in doubles. Show gets on the road at Alexander Memorial Coliseum at 7:30.

Queried about his return to the tour, Tony replied with refreshing frankness:

"I think this is Gonzales' last year. I believe he will retire if he wins, and if he loses, he'll be out of it. I'm the only American around. Somebody's gonna make $100,000, and I'd just as soon it were me.

"Of course, I'll never make the kind of money Hoad's getting,"

And He's Mad It's Not More

he quipped. "You know Lew's got two litle girls, and I have a little boy. I'm going to try to marry my boy into some of that Hoad money."

But back to court. What's the most acute problem attached to indoor tennis?

Hoad and Trabert agreed on the background and lighting.

"You know Ted Williams can't hit in the dark," Trabert continued. "And when you get a light background it's awful hard to see the ball."

"The officiating has been surprisingly good," injected Hoad. "We did play in one midwestern city where one of the service line judges was reading Time magazine."

"And don't forget the town where the official was drunk, and kept calling the singles lines in a doubles match," said Trabert.

"Getting enough sleep is a problem also," yawned Hoad.

How about the crowds? Are they for Hoad or Gonzales?

"They were all for Hoad when we started in Australia," Trabert said. "And most American fans were for Hoad because he was the underdog. But when he started winning, they switched to Pancho because he's an American. Now there are cheers for both."

Tech Netters Meet Hoosiers Here Today

Georgia Tech's netters, winners in all except two of their first seven duels, will entertain Indiana University at 3 p.m. Monday at Tech courts.

The Hoosiers had a 12-2 record last year, defeating Florida, FSU, Georgia and Vanderbilt on their southern tour. Tech will be their first opponent on this year's swing through the south. FSU, Mississippi State, Rollins, Georgia, Tennessee and Vanderbilt will be met in that order.

Coach Earle Bortell, beaten by Presbyterian's strong club Saturday, will send Ned Neely, Bob Nichols, Harry Thompson, Jerry Averbuch, Mike Mehaffy and Sam Fleming against the Hoosiers with high hopes of getting the Jackets back on the victory road.

Bruins' Scalp Gets 8 Stitches

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins forward Bronco Horvath was discharged from Carney Hospital Sunday after treatment for a moderate concussion and a scalp cut which required about eight stitches.

New York defenseman Jack Evans drew a five-minute major penalty for slashing.

Tribe Sends Lary to Coast

TUCSON (AP)—The Cleveland Indians Sunday announced the optioning of pitcher Gene Lary to their San Diego farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

The 24-year-old right hander, who has been training with the Indians here this spring, had a 3-5 record with San Diego and was 4-4 with Mobile last season.

BOOST FOR CUPPERS

MacKay May Join Tour as 'Learner'

It seems the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association is approaching a positive step toward answering the nation's No. 1 amateur tennis problem: How to beat Australia in the Davis Cup matches.

After years of rivaling the Bank of England for conservatism, the powers that be in the USLTA have given Jack Kramer the green light to invite Barry MacKay, promising young collegian, along for part of the Lew Hoad-Pancho Gonzales tour.

Though MacKay can't participate in the professional matches, he will have the practice opportunity to hone his game against the world's sharpest tennis competition.

Tony Trabert, who arrived through the ranks at the pinnacle of American amateur tennis, hails the probable move by Perry Jones, new leader of the country's Davis Cup troops.

Asked what the U.S. can do to repair pitiful breaches in its amateur tennis wall, Trabert replied:

"Our Association doesn't have a program. The Australian Association does. The Australians don't mind risking a little expense money on a promising youngster, who might develop into a star. I didn't get any help until I had won the nationals here.

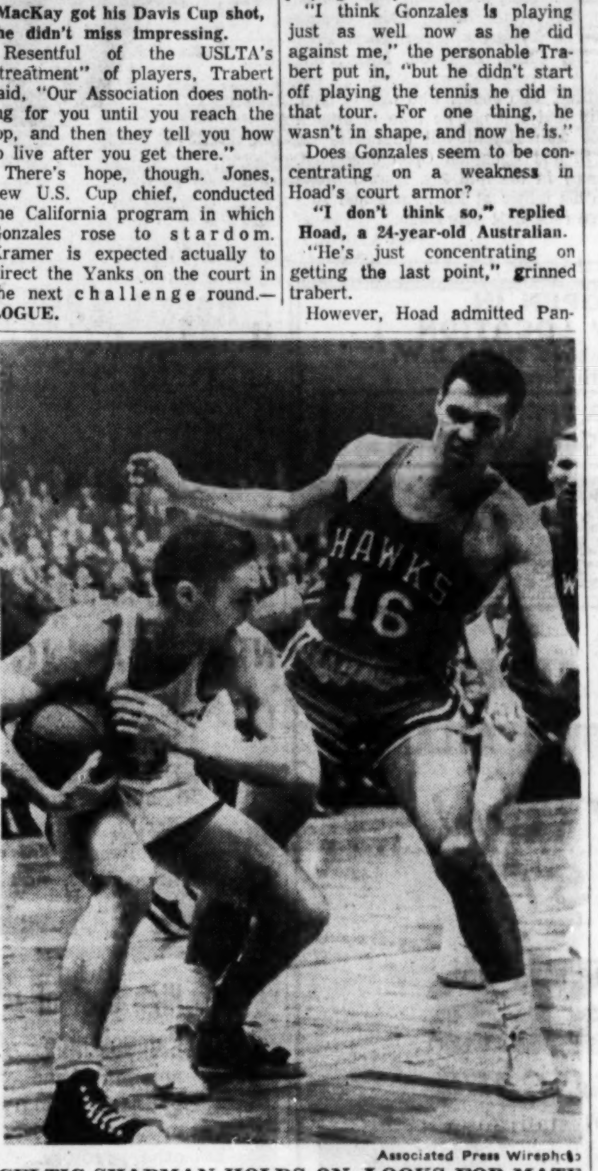

"If MacKay travels with us it'll be a step in the right direction. In 1950, Billy Talbert wanted to take me on the tour to Europe. The men at Forest Hills said, 'no, he'll never be any good.' This will be a wonderful chance for MacKay to improve his game."

Hoad feels his fellow countrymen will retain the cup next time. But he didn't care for long range predictions. Lew believes the U.S. has to quit wasting so much of its young players' time to regain lost international tennis prestige.

"They send young fellows like MacKay and Mike Green down for the Davis Cup and then they don't do anything. There is a week between each big tournament in Austrailia, and these boys spend a lot of time away from tournament tennis." When MacKay got his Davis Cup shot, he didn't miss impressing.

Resentful of the USLTA's "treatment" of players, Trabert said, "Our Association does nothing for you until you reach the top, and then they tell you how to live after you get there."

There's hope, though. Jones, new U.S. Cup chief, conducted the California program in which Gonzales rose to stardom. Kramer is expected actually to direct the Yanks on the court in the next challenge round.—LOGUE.

CELTIC SHARMAN HOLDS ON, LOOKS FOR MATE

Hawk Defenders Are Cliff Hagan (16), Jack Coleman (11)

Rookie Sam Jones Aids Celts in 136-132 Romp

BOSTON (AP)—Boston regained its scoring touch with the help of unheralded Sam Jones for a 136-112 victory over St. Louis Sunday that deadlocked their best of seven final National Basketball Assn. playoff series 1-1.

Though the victory was a strong team effort, Jones captured the imagination of the 10,249 Boston Garden customers for his part in evening the count in the series.

Jones, who didn't even play in yesterday's 104-102 St. Louis triumph, dropped in 16 points, excelled on defense and brought the partisan throng to its feet with his rebounding and drive-in shots against taller opponents.

While the rookie from North Carolina College showed his versatality in a spot relief role, the Celtics got 25 points from Bob Cousy, 22 each from Bill Sharman and Bill Russell and 20 from Frank Ramsey.

The Celtics were able to block up the key circle and defend better against the Hawk's Bot Pettit, but Cliff Hagan remained a troublesome thorn in Boston's side. Hagan tallied 37 points while Pettit was limited to 19. Pesky Slater Martin also hit for 19.

The Celtics, who could connect on only 32 per cent of their shots Saturday to St. Louis' 40 per cent, scored on 48 of 103 field goal attempts. The Hawks got 38 of 107. In addition, Boston grabbed 85 rebounds, 27 of them fielded by the remarkable Russell, to St. Louis' 55.

St. Louis chopped the Boston lead to 68-60 at halftime only to have the Celtics push out to an 86-65 bulge in a quick three minute spurt when Ramsey scored nine points. Cousy and Sharman spoiled other Hawk rallies with their long howitzer-like set shots.

The third game of the series will be played Wednesday night at St. Louis.

TIGER-TRIBE TRADE UNITES BOLLING BOYS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Sunday sent minor league pitcher Pete Wojey and a reported $20,000 to Cleveland for infielder Milt Bolling and pitcher Vito Valentinetti.

Milt Bolling

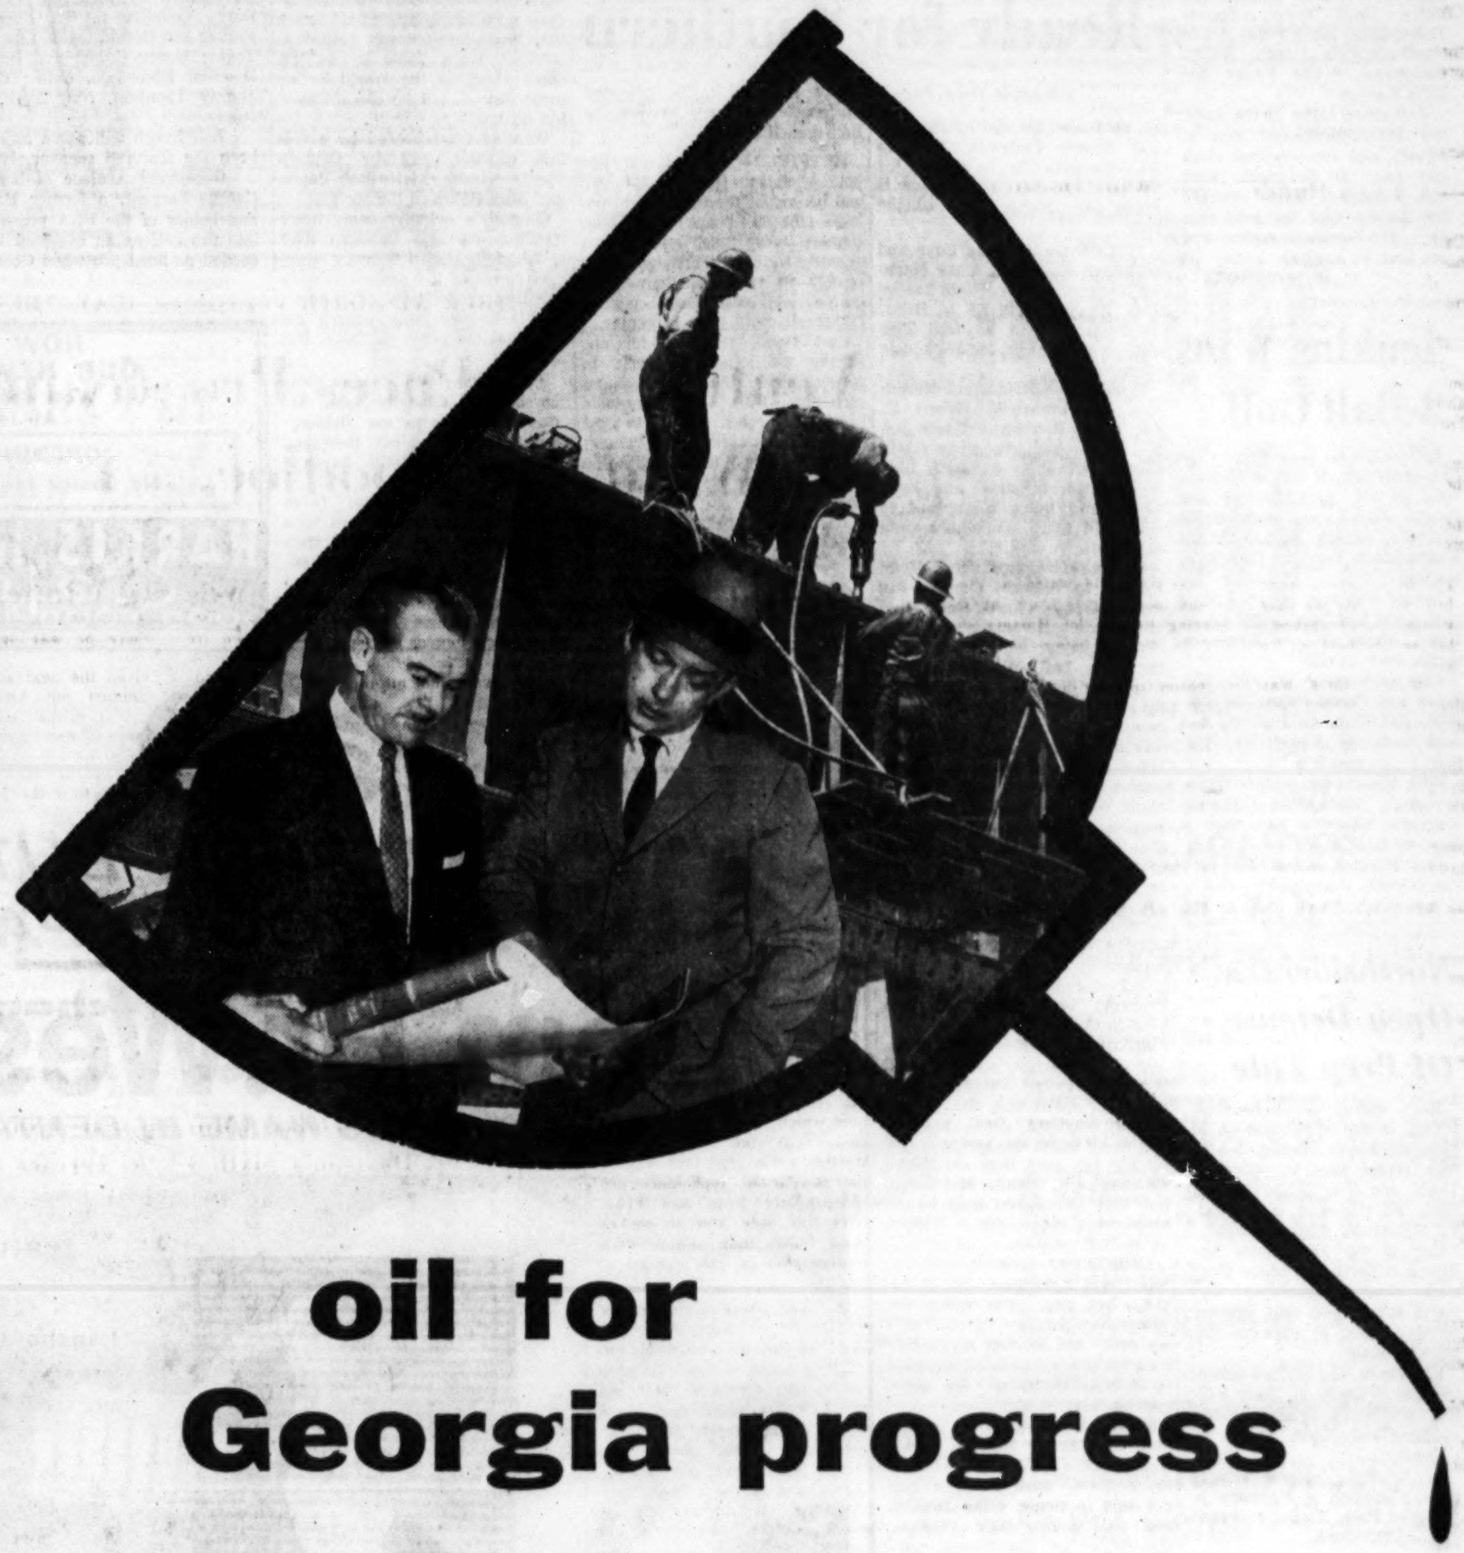

Frank Bolling

Tiger general manager John McHale said Bolling would be used as a utility infielder. His brother, Frank, is Detroit's regular second baseman.

Bolling, 28, batted .277 with Boston and Washington last year before the Indians obtained him in a winter deal.

Velentinetti, a 29-year-old righthander, was 0-0 with the Chicago Cubs last year before he posted a 9-5 record with Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. He was sold to Cleveland late in the season, winning two games and losing two.

Wojey, 34, had an 8-11 record with the Tigers' Charleston, W.Va., farm club in the American Assn. last season. A righthander, he had several trials with the Dodgers before moving to the Detroit organization.

oil for Georgia progress

Every growing business means new jobs, opportunity, progress. And an important part of the growth story of nearly every Georgia business is bank credit. At the end of last year, C&S Banks had outstanding loans to business totaling over $180 million. In this way, year by year, we build experience and know-how to meet the needs of companies of every size and type. Another reason why growth-minded businesses are switching to creative C&S banking.

Rain Forces Stock Cars To Stay in Pits

Rain caught NASCAR'S Grand National field waiting in the pits Sunday and forced postponement of the Atlanta stock car season for two weeks.

Promoters Carl Queen and Ernie Troutman announced the 100-mile race will be run April 13.

A crowd of nearly 4,000 was on hand despite the bad weather and 17 cars were ready by the time race officials decided the track was too dangerous to attempt the runs.

Among the top drivers on hand were Curtis Turner, Lee Petty, Buck Baker, Speedy Thompson, Jack Smith, Tim Flock, Marvin Panch, Wilbur Rakestraw, Eddie Pagan and Billy Carden.

Two other races in the state, the MARC-sanctioned run at Albany and the modified stock car race at Savannah were also postponed. MARC reslated the Albany race for next Sunday. The Savannah contest was put back to April 13.

Jenkins Wins 2-Ball Golf

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — The four-under-par 68 for a two-day total of 134, gave Tommy and Edwin Jenkins, Jacksonville brothers, victory Sunday in the Southeastern Two-Ball Golf Tournament.

Second was won by an Atlanta pair, Gene Dahlbender and Lester Kelly, whose 67 puts them one stroke back at 135.

Tied for third at 137 were Ray Terry and Fredd Mann, Jacksonville, and Brantley Brannon and Jack Rountree, Lake City, Fla. Both teams had 70's.

Fifth place went to Bob White, Savannah, and Pete Coleman, Waycross, whose 70 gave them a two-way total of 138.

Jack Morgan, Macon, and Dick Van Kleeck, Jacksonville shot a 74 and finished well back at 147.

Northsiders Open Defense Of Prep Title

Rain, enemy of all baseball teams, is the perpetrator of an unusually-heavy Monday 3-AAA high school baseball schedule. There are five games on the card, all makeups of washed-out attractions from last week.

One of the key games has Brown at Northside, where Wayman Creel's defending diamond kings open title defense stripped bare of their 1957 pitching staff.

Elsewhere, the revised schedule has O'Keefe at West Fulton, Smith at Grady, Fulton at Bass and North Fulton at Roosevelt.

In Greater Atlanta attractions, Campbell of Fairburn is at Forest Park, Tucker at Avondale.—ATKINSON.

Only Three Crax Ready for Southern

er, up from Eau Claire; Jim Hay and Jimmy Callaway, both up from Panama City, in runnnig for second-string job unless trade is made for catcher with outside club.

PITCHING—Veterans Cave and O'Donnell look good. Cave potential 20-game winner. Right-hander Jack Hannah, only 6-6 at Boise, darkhorse bet to be front-liner after showing class for Wichita in spring games.

Rookies Bob Botz, Noel Mickelsen, Jim Umbricht, Robert E. Lee, Bobby Hendley and John Stokoe pitched well enough to retain chances for spots on staff. Last three are southpaws and have best chances unless southpaw help comes in more abundance than expected.

Unless Milwaukee sends Juan Pizzaro to Wichita, chances are that southpaws Charlie Gorin, Ken MacKenzie will remain with class AAA Wichita. Southpaws Bill Hartman, Phil Misley and Bill Augustoni not likely to be Crackers, probably will wind up at Austin, Tex.

Righthander Claude Raymond, 12-6 at Jacksonville and best looking spring flinger with Wichita, likely to head bullpen corps at Wichita and not be sent to Crackers. Righthander Corky Valentine has sore arm. Terry Fox so-so in spring games. Dick Grabowski has not impressed.

FIRST BASE—Buck Riddle, has lock on spot at moment. Has 3 homers in his spring games, 2 grand-slammers. Batting .336. Probably best fielder at first base in Southern.

SECOND BASE — Bob Jacobs, .232 at Evansville, can make all fielding plays but is question mark with bat. Speed only fair. Chuck Cottier, excellent glover and hitting much better this spring, might fill bill but may beat out Negro Ed Charles at Wichita. Mel Roach, now with Milwaukee, may be the answer but might stick at Wichita at another position.

SHORTSTOP—Trouble spot unless Daryl Robertson, .262 at Topeka last year, can range far enough to handle job. Hit with authority and fielded acceptably with Wichita before being assigned to Atlanta Saturday. No other capable man in sight.

THIRD BASE—Best bet is that "old war horse" Sammy Meeks, who hit .282 at Atlanta last time around, will open there if can get legs in shape. Mike Krsnich and ex-Cracker Dick Phillips, thought to be possibilities, currently expected to be retained, at least temporary, by Wichita. Both mauling ball.

OUTFIELD—No spot clinched yet. A chance that outside help will be sought for center field unless $100,000 bonus boy John Demerit—very much an unknown quantity — comes through handsomely in exhibition games. In case of emergency, pitcher O'Donnell could open in center.

Carl Powis may go in left. Hitting well, fielding poorly in spring games. Has ailing legs and sore arm. Billy (Ace) Reynolds best bet in right. Got off to best start in some time. Hit 2 homers in early games. Hampered some by ailing legs. No Dimaggio in field.

If Milwaukee ships Al Spangler, rookie sensation, to Wichita, Crackers may get some outfield help. Ailing Hawes, beaned in an exhibition game, and Montag may not be ready to go for some time.

Crackers Drop Lerner And Catcher John Grace

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Shortstop Maury Lerner and catcher John Grace have been cut from the spring training squad of the Atlanta Crackers.

Lerner, who suffered a hand fracture on a fielding play in the Crackers' 5-3 Saturday exhibition game victory over the Charlotte, N.C., Hornets, will go home to Brookline, Mass., until his hand mends sufficiently to allow him to perform for some Milwaukee farm club.

Grace, a .255 sticker for Evansville in the Three-I League last year, has been sent to Milwaukee's Waycross, Ga., camp for clubs in the lower classifications.

CRACKER CRUMBS—Jim Umbricht, Cecil Butler and Bob Botz will do some of the hurling as the Crackers, idled by bad weather Sunday, play Wichita a double-bill Monday, starting at 10 a.m. . . . Pilot Buddy Bates says, "I've seen no 20-game winners here yet but I want to give all these rookie pitchers a chance to make the club." . . . Bates will not be on hand for the final two exhibition games with Salt Lake City and Columbus, Ohio, Thursday and Friday. He'll leave for Atlanta after Wednesday's Wichita battle for a Thursday talk to the Chamber of Commerce. He won't return to Jacksonville. Scout Julian Morgan will direct the Crackers in their final exhibitions.

Condition of Roy Hawes, outfielder - first baseman who was beaned a week ago, remains unchanged. He felt dizziness and headaches from the concussion he suffered, also some numbness in his arms and legs. Doctors won't let him work out before the club returns to Atlanta Friday night or Saturday morning, but Hawes, who has attended some of the exhibition games since being injured, says, "I think I'll be ready to go when the season starts. I'll be okay if I can just get three or four days' practice under my belt." . . . Herbie Clay, the roving pitcher who has many home-comings, grabbed a bus for his Powder Springs home a few hours after he was assigned to the Braves' Waycross camp.

Bulldogs, Auburn Hunt Hits While Tech Sweats a Sore Arm

Pittard Worry Is Chambless

While Georgia's Jim Whatley and Auburn's Joe Connally Sunday were wondering where the willow went, Georgia Tech's Joe Pittard sought immediate aid for an ailing sophomore arm.

Pittard's Yellow Jackest, laden wih home run stingers, thrice inoculated Tennessee's unwilling Volunteers over the weekend. And he expressed pleasure over the hitting, pitching and some of the fielding.

"But I'm worried about Eddie Chambless' sore arm," Marse Joe said. "That boy's left arm can be a great factor in our success or failure this season."

However, Whatley's problem seemed the most distressing of the trio. Some 17 Bulldogs went to bat in the two bitter losses at Auburn hands this week, and among 'em they produced only 10 singles. Some of them weren't too loud.

"We just don't have much hitting," Whatley said. "If we're going to win games this season we'll have to slide when we should slide, throw ahead of the runner, not let the winning run get down to second and do all those other things like that."

Showing why he's a big leaguer as a man and one of the nation's best collegiate baseball coaches, Whatley commented philosophically on a sophomore's wild throw that beat the Bulldogs Saturday.

"That boy's liable to do the same thing in the World Series some day . . . if he can improve his hitting."

Whatley was cheered by excellent mound tours by Captain Wayne Minshew, lefty Bob Payne and Billy Hearn in the series.

Connally's actually doing more puzzling over his batsmen than is Whatley. High frequency averages compiled last season by guys like Rex Frederick, L. F. Lanier, Pat Duke and Jack Crouch assure that the power is there. But where?

"We're leaving too many men on bases," Connally said. "I was pleased with our fielding and pitching against Georgia, but our hitters still haven't stepped forward."

Tech tackles Florida, twice victor over Auburn, in two here this weekend that Pittard says will go a long way toward declaring what both Jackets and Gators really have. Connally rates Georgia's pitching above the Gators, but says Florida's stickers are tougher.

"The next three weekends probably show how far we'll go in the SEC race," said Pittard, coach of the defending champions. "After Florida, we play Auburn there one week and here the next."

Marse Joe expressed extreme happiness over the pitching chores against Tennessee of ace Bud Blemker, junior Jimmy Nelson and William David (Chick) Haught.

And he also liked the heavy lumber swung by Ted Thomas, Earl Moore and Jack Robertson. Thomas and Moore slammed two homers apiece, and Robertson deparked another pitch..

"Joe Chambers and Doug Veazey are finding their batting eyes, too," Pittard continued. "And we're fortunate to have catchers like George Inman and Thomas in the game together. (One behind the bat, the other on first.)

"Our infield is still erratic. Like any young bunch, they come up with great plays and then hurt you."

Auburn's infield turned airtight over the weekend. Jimmy Laster, third base; Bob James, shortstop; Crouch second and Lloyd Nix, first, should be among the league's finest.

Georgia hosts Michigan State Tuesday and Wednesday, with Notre Dame arriving Thursday. Kentucky hits Athens for three games this weekend. Auburn invades Mercer Wednesday, and Vanderbilt invades the Plain for three Friday and Saturday.

Busy Week For SEC Teams

AAC HONORS SARGENT AT DINNER TONIGHT

East Lake Country Club members and a host of his friends and associates from throughout the country will gather at Atlanta Athletic Club Monday night to honor Harold Sargent.

The popular East Lake pro's testimonial dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. and will be preceded by a social session beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Numbered among the celebrities will be Sam Snead, three times winner of the Masters; Horton Smith, twice king of the Augusta classic, and Jay Hebert, a steady tour player.

Most of the leading golf equipment manufacturers will be represented by their top executives. They are, Fred Bowman, Harry Colburn, L. G. (Plug) Osborne, River Grove, Ill.; Ed Parker and Harold Cross, Chicopee, Mass.; Ed Rankin, Fort Worth, Texas; Henry Cowen and Bob Rickey, Cincinnatf, Ohio; George Dawson, Escondido, Calif.; George McCarthy, Providence, R.I.; Jimmy Thomson, New York, Nig Clark, Brockton, Mass., and others.

Bob Lynch will serve as emcee. Bob Jones, who was to have been the featured speaker, is ill and will not be able to attend.

Occupying a place of honor with Harold will be his father George Sargent, a former U. S. and Canadian Open champion, and holder of the PGA presidency in the mid 20s. Harold broke into pro golf as an assistant to his father at East Lake and succeeded as head pro when George retired 11 years ago.

Masters Favorite Drives and Putts for Charity

Ken Venturi, hailed as the young man with a plan (to win this year's Masters) thrilled a crowd of 5,000 with his shotmaking in Sunday's charity exhibition at North Fulton golf course. Below he is shown stroking a putt on No. 7 where he got his par four. And at left, Ken drills one off the tee on same hole.

Overtime Sessions Planned For Tech Gridders This Week

Scrimmage Set For Tuesday

Georgia Tech's football team plans a little overtime this week to regain valuable practice ground washed away by recent heavy rains.

"We're going six days this week," said assistant head coach Ray Graves, "and five next week. That should put us right on schedule."

The Yellow Jackets have an eye peeled toward the T-Night game that will conclude spring training if the weatherman cooperates for impending sessions.

"We won't really know how the boys stand until the scrimmages Tuesday and Saturday at Grant Field," Graves continued. "We've just been teaching mostly in the first two practices, getting the boys ready for the scrimmages.

"One thing is certain. Nobody's got it made. Everybody's starting on the same level. We're going to divide the squad into two equal teams Tuesday, three units to a team, and we'll probably scrimmage about 2½ hours, at least until everybody gets a chance.

"The backs have been tackling well in defensive drills, and several freshman linemen have been impressive. I liked the way boys like end Gerald Burch and tackles Billy Shaw and Ed Nutting have looked."

Graves said the Jackets reported in good condition, and they should be in excellent shape for Tuesday's head-knocking.

"We'll know more then," he concluded.

City League Baseball Slates 5 Games Today

With the weatherman's permission, of course, City League baseball teams jump into a busy week Monday with five games on schedule.

Northside opens defense of its 3-AAA West title, taking on Brown at Northside.

Other games: O'Keefe vs. West Fulton at Glenn Field, Smith at Grady, Fulton vs. Bass at Candler Park and North Fulton at Roosevelt.

Pete's Some Putter, Demaret Discovered

By Bert Prather

Take it from a man who has won the Masters three times, Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura, who along with his Japanese countryman, Koichi Ono, will be among 12 foreign players in this week's Masters, is a fabulous putter.

Bert Prather

"The little fellow knocks them in from everywhere," said Jimmy Demaret, here Sunday afternoon.

And Jimmy should know. It was little Torakichi and Koichi who defeated Jim and Sam Snead in the Canada Cup Matches last fall in Japan. And he got a refresher course on Pete's putting in their Saturday match at Boca Raton, which incidentally, Sam and Jim won on the last hole.

But granting that their short game is outstanding, Demaret thinks Augusta National is too big for them. "I'm afraid they'll have a rough time in Augusta. They tell me the course is playing very long, and that will hurt these boys," Jimmy allowed.

Jimmy also said that anyone who doesn't put Ben Hogan and Snead among the top favorites for the Masters, "should have his head examined."

Then Jimmy headed for his plane to Augusta where he will strive for a record fourth Masters.

And don't bet the happy man from Houston can't do it. He's been playing very little this winter, but he hasn't forgotten how to hit all the shots in the book. Remember, it took a storybook finish by Cary Middlecoff and Dick Mayer to knock him out of the Open championship last June at Inverness.

Jolly Jimmy Thomson, golfdom's unchallenged siege gun a few years back, has been weathered-in and hadn't touched a stick all winter until Sunday. But nevertheless Jimmy managed a very fine 74 over rugged Peachtree while playing in a fivesome with Carling Dinkler Jr. (77), Tommy Barnes (73), Luke Barnes (73) and Jim Kane (84). Jim's in town for the Harold Sargent dinner Monday.

CHIP SHOTS: Aces came in pairs at Ewing Pomeroy's Ansley Club last week. Jim Falliaze registered one on the 160-yard No. 3 while playing in a foursome with Joe Davis, Jay Maddox and Joe Love. The other came on 170-yard ninth when Dameron Black cracked a four wood right on target. Watching were partners Earl Crowe, C. G. Campbell and Jim Bonner. . . . North Fulton's 190-yard downhill 14th had to yield to the accuracy of LeRoy Early last week. LeRoy's hole-in-one, which stunned partners Roy Massey, G. R. Lindley and Jim Kondors, was made with a three wood. . . . No one could hit Peachtree GC bogey 70 Sunday, but Julian Harrison, Arthur Montgomery and Freeman Jones collected for guessing closest with 72s. . . . All that noise around the 18th at Peachtree late Sunday was Sam Dorsey's foes. Sam knocked a four wood (out of the woods) into the cup for an eagle deuce. The hole measures 397 yards.

Bob Moser, the tall Augustan, and captain Hugh Royer Jr., of Columbus, lead University of Georgia golfers with an average of 73.4 strokes per round. . . . James T. Elder is leading qualifiers in James L. Key club tournament. Pro Teddy Hayes says qualifying has been extended until next Sunday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. W. Davis Hamilton have donated a plaque to North Fulton Women's Golf Assn., to be awarded to golfer of year in the organization each year.

Billy Paschal, the old New York Giant footballer, is getting quite handy with an eight iron. He employed this tool to knock in an eagle deuce on No. 15 at Druid Hills GC. . . . Also at Druid: Bill Sanders is thinking of hanging up his putter. He chipped in for a birdie deuce on 13 and wound up the round by chipping in on 18 for a birdie four. . . . General Oglethorpe will stage tournaments for women and men July 10 through 13. The men will play 72 holes, the ladies 36, at stroke, of course.

coming down so hard that the greens were tough to handle. Ken's birdie was about a six-footer.

Demaret posted a 34-38—72, while Ward and Goodloe both had pickups. Goodloe's was on six where he hit the ditch with his drive and tried to play it out without success.

Following the match, Demaret, Venturi and Ward all hopped planes for Augusta and a round of earned practice sessions at Augusta National before the 22nd Masters cranks up Thursday.

Ward, who has not been playing too well, no doubt will seek out his golf doctor, Lord Byron Nelson, first thing Monday morning. Harvie is hoping the twice Masters champion and one of golf's all-time greats will find the answer to his troubles.

Harvie, twice U.S. and once British Amateur titlist, is usually one of the steadiest players in the game. He finished fourth in last year's Masters. His brother-in-law and staunchest backer, Ashford Smith, says Harvie will be back on his game by Thursday.

Venturi, who had a 69 and 68 in two rounds at Augusta National Friday and Saturday, informed Ward he'd better get in the groove for they had a big match on with Nelson and Jack Burke Monday afternoon.

The new sponsors are to be congratulated for the splendid job they did on the match. General Chairman Bob Mathis Jr., Hal Dumas Jr., Bob Clark, Sam Eplan and all the others can take a bow. Also Charlie Bloodworth, who served as referee for the match.

They are already making plans for next year's match.

Weekend of Pins Fill Spencer Trophy Case

By PAUL ATKINSON

Until this weekend, Doris Spencer's cupboard had been embarrassingly bare of bowling trophies. Now she has three and is a favorite to get a fourth.

"I had been bowling for four years," she said with a smile Sunday. "But I just couldn't win a trophy. And now it looks mighty good."

The pert young housewife accomplished this in the short span of two days: Bowled a keen 606 Saturday in spearheading Twelve Oaks Restaurant to the City Women's Bowling Assn. team title; compiled Sunday a sparkling 1,555 all-event scratch (broken down into 520, team; 496, doubles; 539, singles), rolled the best high individual scratch game of 216, and teamed with Ssther Beyers to tie for the doubles championship with a 1,137 report.

DORIS SPENCER
The Cupboard Isn't Bare

Pat McMullan and Alice Bond compiled a similar 1,137 chart to deadlock the doubles issue. The McMullen-Bond combo has scheduled a rolloff with the Beyers Spencer team Monday night at O'Neil's Bowlerama for the title.

There were surprises in the singles and all-events handicap finishes. Patsy Higbie strung together games of 169-201—157, dashed in a 153 handicap and emerged with a 680 singles score. Rounding out the top five were Anne Camp, 651; Lolly Bredhenner, 641; Lois Arnston, 640; and Charlotte Gober, 626.

Lolly Bredhenner came up with a 1,834 all events handicap score on the last shift to take the title. She passed a 1,789 by Spencer; 1,764 by Ann Camp; 1,757 by Charlotte Gober; and a 1,732 by Allene Farmer.

Lois Arnston, second in all events scratch with a 1,537, won the high series scratch trophy with a 586 three-gamer.

Third in the doubles were Allene Farmer and Marianne Woodward with a 1,130; Jane Kinkela and Bredhenner and Jan Childs and Charlotte Gober were fourth and fifth at 1,124.

Prep Golfers Open Play At Georgia

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS — If the drenching rains of past days roll by, the University of Georgia will open a prep golf tournament which it hopes will soon become a fixture.

This first competition, scheduled for 11 a. m. Monday over the Athens Country Club Course and an original brainchild of Georgia golf coach Howell Hollis, has attracted an uncommon amount of interest.

Full teams from 12 Georgia high and prep schools have been entered and remnants of others. Names you'll readily recognize among the junior set are Eddie Sams, defending state juniors champion, and his Athens High School colleague Jimmy Gabrielsen.

There are others. Joe Segal and Teddy Hayes, Jr., of Grady High School in Atlanta just to mention a few.

Even members of Hollis' freshman golf team will compete. Don Patterson is one.

There Is Still Time to Have a Lush Summer Lawn

Sawan Advises Planting Now For Fast Beauty

Nothing improves the appearance of any home like a thick lawn of healthy green grass. For the best eye-catching results, Sawan, developers of "Vigosan Purple" coating process for lawn seed, recommends planting as soon as possible.

The remarkable "grow power" of Sawan Lawn Seed is made possible by its exclusive "Vigosan Purple" coating. Only the healthiest, most hearty grass seed adaptable to this region receive the purple coating that enables Sawan Lawn Seed to grow the greenest lawns ever seen.

The formula for the "Vigosan Purple" coating is a closely guarded secret, but it can be revealed that it contains important vitamins, growth hormones, and plant stimulants, in addition to the most effective known seed protectant.

As a result, Sawan seed germinate quickly; develop heavier root systems; grow a deeper, richer year-round green. They do not suffer the high mortality of ordinary grass seed when pitted against the deadly soil fungi and diseases.

Sawan "Vigosan Purple" coated seed are able to take adverse soil and weather conditions in stride . . . thereby giving you a lush green lawn the year round with only ordinary care.

Regardless of sun or shade conditions, Sawan has "Vigosan Purple" coated seed for any yard. They are Sunny Park, for full sun; Shady Park, for 50 per cent or more shade and evergreen, for less than 50 per cent shade. Sawan's Premium Bermuda is also "Vigosan Purple" coated for faster germination, quick thicker growth. Your nearby Sawan dealer can advise you on planting to fit your own particular requirements.

Sawan "Vigosan Purple" coated lawn seed are moderately priced and sold in two and five-pound, heat-sealed transparent bags; also in 25-pound bags. When buying, make sure you get Sawan, look for the purple coating on the seed itself.

There are more than 80 Sawan dealers in the Atlanta area, and others throughout Georgia and the Southeast to serve you. For the name of the dealer nearest you, consult the yellow pages of your telephone directory or call Sawan, Inc., 690 Murphy Ave., SW. Telephone PL. 5-1645.

FOR SHADE, SEMISHADE OR FULL SUN, SAWAN HAS SEED—For a picture-pretty lawn, Sawan recommends Evergreen for areas with less than 50% shade; Shady Park for areas with 50% or more shade, and Sunny Park for areas in full sun. Plant Sawan now for a lawn of permanent green and you'll be proud enough to photograph.

King Hardware Stores Feature Philco-Bendix 'Duomatic' in Sale

Several "Silent Salesmen" are important factors that have made the Philco-Bendix Duomatic washer-dryer combination become one o fthe top-selling appliances at King Hardware Stores.

"Silent Salesmen" is a descriptive term used by Bill Sharp, Appliance Division Manager of King Hardware Stores, in telling about some of the self-selling features of this efficient Duomatic. With years of experience in the appliance. field,. Sharp. explained, "Many features of this washer-dryer unit are impressive, but naturally time is all-important to busy housewives of this age.

"This is just one of the many points in which the Philco-Bendix Duomatic shines, for it saves up to 45 minutes with an average load of clothes. From start to finish, this time-tested Duomatic completely washes your clothes brighter than ordinary, and dries them in approximately one hour.

"In addition to a time element," Sharp continued, "The Philco-Bendix Duomatic washes clothes with less water than any other full-sized washer. This efficient machine washes and triple rinses a full load of clothes, using 29½ gallons of water; whereas, the typical agitator automatic uses 44 gallons per cycle."

Measuring only 36 inches in width, the Duomatic can be used in some out-of-the-way place or in smaller kitchens without making the room seem overcrowded. To suit individual taste, there are three colors to choose from other than the standard white.

With the Duomatic, there is no "tearing-up of the kitchen" in order to bolt the machine to the floor. It has adjustable legs to assure you of its sturdiness.

Duomatic keyboard controls are truly "Magic," for when a housewife touches the master switch, she can relax and rest assured that her clothes will be automatically washed clean and dried quickly.

The beautiful Philco-Bendix Duomatic is available in either gas or electric models, both now on display at your nearest King Hardware Store, where a special spring sale begins tomorrow. During the month of April, those who purchase Duomatics at King Hardware will receive extra large trade-ins.

An added attraction in this sale is the free wiring, "from meter to machine," by a licensed electrician. King Hardware makes it simple for everyone to own a work-saving Duomatic, for this reputable firm has a well-known "easy term" policy.

ATLANTA ENVELOPE COMPANY

Offers Free Art and Creative Design Service

The first ambassador of a business firm is often a written message—in an envelope. Atlanta Envelope Co. reminds business executives that the appearance of the envelope reflects the personality and quality of the company. A properly planned and designed business envelope often makes the difference between getting a message read or tossed in the waste basket.

The envelope has proven to be a big factor in today's complex business correspondence. Smart businessmen capitalize on the envelope as more than a letter-carrier using its space for an advertising billboard. Products and service illustrations can be handsomely woven into envelope design in a compelling manner to compete for attention from today's "mail-hounded" businessman.

Atlanta Envelope Co. has devoted its 65 years' experience to creating good impressions through envelopes. To carry out this development service for its customers, AECO operates an art department properly equipped and staffed to give your envelopes their utmost potential. Creative sketches are available for your firm without obligation. A telephone call to AECO's Creative Art Department, TR. 6-3686, is all that's necessary.

The artists at Atlanta Envelope Co. do more than add eye-catching illustrations and thought-provoking phrases to your envelope designs. Their designs are built around the functional uses you intend for your mail and correspondence. Many unique and cost-saving designs have enabled businessmen to reduce office routine and obtain high returns on direct mail campaigns and collections.

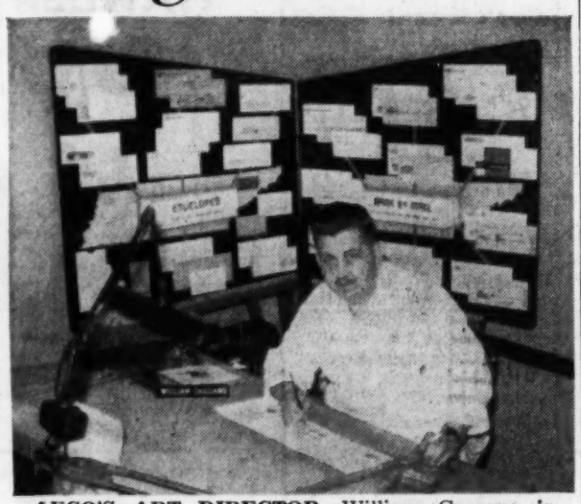

Atlanta Envelope Co.'s designs are not confined to mail use. Many envelope applications have been adapted for packaging, storage, merchandizing and other manufacturing needs. Use of new papers and other materials enable AECO envelopes to be used in a variety of ways not considered practical just a few years ago.

The quality of Atlanta Envelope Co. products is available to business firms at mass production prices. This modern Atlanta firm is supplemented by complete branch plants in Nashville, Miami and Tampa. The AECO family is the South's largest envelope manufacturing group.

Mail plays an important role in the conduct of today's business, and it's important for today's business firm to be kept up to date on mailing regulations. Atlanta Envelope Co. has condensed this vital material into a convenient Postal Chart that shows postal rates and regulations.

For your free copy of this postal chart, write AECO, P.O. Box 1267, Atlanta 1, Ga., on your company stationery.

Atlanta Envelope Co. also invites you to listen to the Sunday afternoon "Promenade Concert" presented over radio station WGKA from 12:15 to 1:45 p.m., 1600 on your AM dial, 92.9 on FM.

AECO'S ART DIRECTOR—William Cassano is shown above completing a new envelope design. Call AECO's creative art department at TRinity 6-3686 to discuss your envelope design problems and ideas. They will be happy to prepare sketches for you without obligation.

L. L. Cheek Redecorates and Beautifies Homes in Atlanta

The time is now!

That's the important word from L. L. Cheek, head of the L. L. Cheek Contracting Co., in a special announcement today, urging home and property owners in this area to have their decorating done NOW before the summer rush—while prices are lower and workmen can give their full attention to the job.

Specializing in painting, wallpapering and floor refinishing—in fact, complete redecorating both inside and out—the L. L. Cheek Contracting Co. was established in Atlanta 22 years ago, and has done work in homes and businesses, large and small, in every section of the city.

Exceptional and distinctive home decorating workmanship is the distinguishing trade mark of this well-known Atlanta-owned and operated firm. Numbered among their customers are many of the city's beautiful residences. Equipped to handle jobs of all sizes, including individual houses and apartments, L. L. Cheek has established an enviable reputation in the field of home mdoernization and beautification. Because this is the firm's specialty, they are in position to give prompt and efficient service on any job.

Mr. Cheek emphasizes that the same care . . . the same painstaking attention to even the smallest details . . . the same sincere desire to accomplish the job that will merit the homeowner's fullest satisfaction . . . prevails in all work undertaken by his firm. For example, Mr. Cheek gladly assists the home or property owner in the selection of wallpaper colors and patterns, all chosen from a complete stock to decorate each room in the house. Mr. Cheek handles the complete job—from the original estimate to the actual supervision of work crews . . . and on through to the finished job.

TIME TO "DRESS UP" YOUR HOME—Here's a typical scene, where another attractive Atlanta home is redecorated inside and out by the L. L. Cheek Contracting Co. This well-known local firm is equipped to handle jobs of all sizes. Call PL. 5-5744 today.

Homeowners may be interested to know that many members of the L. L. Cheek Contracting Co. have been with Mr. Cheek for 15 years or longer. Coupled with this long and valued experience is the utilization of various types of specialized equipment necessary to the achievement of a high standard of home decorating quality.

To "spruce up" your home now . . . and to avoid confusion and haste which often accompanies the busy early-spring season, call PL. 5-5744, the L. L. Cheek Contracting Co., for free estimate and full details without obligation. Performance bond is furnished upon request.

"If we haven't done work for you, we've done work for your neighbors," states Mr. Cheek. "We will gladly furnish names and addresses of our customers and sincerely invite your patronage.

"Let us redecorate for you now, so that you and your family can enjoy this spring and summer in clean, pleasant surroundings."

Beautify Bath—Only $2 a Week, No Money Down

If you've always thought that shower-doored bathtubs belonged in the homes of the rich only—you're in for a wonderful surprise. For now, SOUTHERN SHOWER DOOR puts this modern addition in comfort, privacy and beauty within anyone's reach—by offering their regular baththub enclosure for only $39.95 — with no down payment and weekly payments as low as $2!

Southern's Bathtub Enclosure consists of a double set of sliding frosted-glass doors and gleaming rustproof aluminum frame! As an added reward for placing your order now—your Southern Bathtub Enclosure will be installed free of charge!

If you've never taken a shower in an enclosed bathtub, you can't know what luxurious comfort and privacy you're missing! In addition, you are protected from cold drafts that can make bathing in the warmest bathroom uncomfortable and even a health hazard.

For this reason a Southern Bathtub Enclosure is especially valuable where there are children or older people in the home.

Regardless of the age of your present bathtub, a Southern Enclosure can completely transform and modernize it. You can say goodby to wet, dripping shower curtains, flooded bathroom floors and dangerous drafts—when you have a Southern Bathtub Enclosure installed.

Then, too, you'll have a beautiful up-to-date bathroom to show off when company comes to call.

But don't delay! Southern's special offer of a double set of sliding frosted glass doors and a rustproof aluminum frame—with installation free—is good for a limited time only. Picture your bathroom with the beautiful addition of a Southern Bathtub Enclosure—and call JA. 5-4585 day or night, or visit Southern Shower Door at 1277 Spring St.

AUG 14 1956

AUG 14 1956 This agreement made and entered into this the ... day of ... 19 56 by and between the State Highway Department of ... party of the first part (hereinafter called the Department) and the COMMISSIONERS of WHITE County (hereinafter called the County) who have been duly authorized to execute this agreement. WITNESSETH:

Whereas, the Department and the County desire the improvement and construction of a certain road and the County desires and agrees to furnish and deliver all the material and to do and perform all the work and labor for said purpose. The project being more particularly described as follows: 0.634 Miles of Grading on the S. R. 17 to S. R. 11 Road. Begins at the Chattahoochee River in Robertstown and extends toward S. Continued From Page 1 in Georgia, sometimes under the guise the counties are not subletting the contracts but are merely renting or leasing machinery.

Three written agreements between White County and Lothridge Brothers for work under State Highway contracts are on file in the county commissioners' office. In all three cases, the agreements are dated earlier than the state highway contracts.

One of the agreements provides that "Lothridge Brothers agree to start work when contract has been approved by the State Highway Dept. of Georgia." Records show Lothridge began work almost five months before the Highway Board signed the first contract on this project.

TWO AGREEMENTS

Two of the agreements provided White County would pay Lothridge the full amount paid by the state to the county for the work. The third agreements stipulated Lothridge would receive the full amount, less $1,000.

All of the agreements were drawn up by Lothridge Brothers, according to the White County commissioners who signed them. The commissioners said the instruments were brought to Cleveland for them to sign.

One of the agreements has a Hall County heading and another is dated as being executed at Gainesville (Hall County seat). The third instrument is dated, but has no heading showing the place it was supposed to have been executed.

The first agreement, dated June 13, 1955, provided "Lothridge Bros. agrees to furnish all labor, material and other things necessary to do work at State Park at Robertstown, Ga. This work consists of building parking area and relocating parts of road."

UNICOI PARK PROJECT

The contract for this work, which was a $49,558 project at Unicoi State Park, was dated July 18, 1955—or six weeks after White County's agreement with Lothridge.

A monthly statement on the project showed work began June 6, 1955—seven weeks before the date on the state contract.

Story, the Cleveland resident engineer, said he did not work up the estimate for this project. He said it was done by Lawrence Stapleton, resident engineer at nearby Clarkesville.

Stapleton said he made the original estimate Jan. 3, 1955, and the division office at Gainesville submitted it to the Atlanta highway office on March 17, 1955. He said the Atlanta office later revised the estimate.

ENGINEER'S LETTER

The following letter from W. S. Smith, division engineer, to John Quillian, Highway Board member from the Northern District, is on file in the Cleveland Highway office:

"In line with recent discussions with you, we have prepared and enclose herewith revised estimates and sketches for the proposed construction of parking area adjacent to concession building and relocation and extension of roadway at Unicoi State Park."

The letter was dated May 31, 1955—a week before the date on the Lothridge—White County agreement.

Records show Lothridge also was paid $11,815 for another contract on this project. Records show the contract was dated Oct. 6, 1955, but work began Sept. 5.

The second Lothridge-White County agreement, dated March 14, 1956, covered seven grading contracts totaling $195,000 on the eight-mile Louisville Camp Grounds Road.

WORK BEFORE CONTRACTS

Highway records show Lothridge began work on the project March 27. But the first in a series of seven contracts on this project was not dated until almost five months later—Aug. 14, 1956.

In fact, records show Lothridge had worked under all seven of the contracts before any of them, including the first one, had been approved. Numbers and dates of the contracts and dates work began follow:

1. PR-908 (4), Aug. 14, 1956, work began March 27, 1956.
2. PR-908 (5), Aug. 27, work began April 9.
3. PR-908 (6), Sept. 25, work began April 16.
4. PR-908 (7), Oct. 3, work began April 30.
5. PR-908 (8) Spur, Nov. 2, work began May 10.
6. PR-908 (9), Nov. 16, work began May 21.
7. PR-908 (10) Spur, Dec. 14, work began June 4.

The third White County-Lothridge agreement, dated April 2, 1957, covers grading and base on the White Creek Church Road. The first contract on this project was dated July 29, but records show work began June 15.

The agreement provides: "Lothridge Bros. on their part agree to rent, lease and furnish to White County sufficient machinery to perform all items in the contract for the above mentioned road for the exact prices paid to White County by the State Highway Dept. of Georgia less ($1,000) one thousand dollars."

The agreement further provides: "Lothridge Bros. shall have the privilege of doing all the work approved by the State Highway Dept. of Georgia on the above mentioned roads."

Juvenile Home Rocked By Blast After Threats treated for bruises and shock at Grady Hospital and released.

"I almost got my head blown and cut off," said Thomas M. Parham, 53, who dodged flying glass. Parham, of 1494 Wellswood Dr., SE, was coming on duty to relieve Thomas and was walking on a sidewalk nearby.

Mrs. Suzie Sudan, the matron, said the charge knocked her to the floor. "I have never been more frightened in my life," she said.

Windows of the Fulton County Courthouse and annex, the juvenile home, and nearby businesses were knocked out. Firemen swept up enough broken glass to fill about 20 large garbage disposal cans.

Supt. R. H. Tarrant of 1095 Rock Springs Rd., NE, estimated damage to the juvenile home would exceed $5,000.

Russell Poteet of 1424 Piedmont Ave., NE, said he was traveling in the vicinity of Oglethorpe University and heard the explosion, some 10 miles away.

study of the nation's financial condition.

Byrd said Bernard Baruch will be the leadoff witness. The 77-year-old financier and adviser to presidents will discuss "the present economic difficulties."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), meanwhile, unveiled still another anti-recession proposal. He called for a 150,000-member youth conservation corps patterned after the depression era Civilian Conservation Corps. In a speech prepared for Senate delivery this week, Humphrey said the corps could begin work on 10 billion dollars worth of conservation and related projects.

In other developments:

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said some governors are stalling on using available federal funds for public works, particularly highway construction. He said they should put this money to work "instead of weeping and wailing about the alleged lack of action in Washington."

The comptroller of the currency announced that total assets of national banks increased by four billion dollars—to 120½ billions—in the last three months of 1957. Comptroller Ray M. Gidney said deposits climbed by five billions to 109 billions.

They called for permanent revision of the system, rather than the temporary action requested by the White House.

The Democratic bill proposes a uniform benefits standard of 50 per cent of a worker's average weekly income for 39 weeks. It also would extend coverage to an additional 1,800,000 workers now outside the system.

Benefits and the duration of payments now vary from state to state.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) and 17 colleagues wrote Byrd in behalf of unemployment compensation legislation they are sponsoring. They contended their measure was preferable to President Eisenhower's proposal for a 50 per cent emergency time extension of unemployment benefits.

Nasser Plans Visit To Italy in July

CAIRO (AP) — The newspaper Al Akhbar said Sunday President Nasser will visit Italy in July.

Announcement of the Italian visit came on the heels of a statement Saturday that Nasser is going to visit the Soviet Union for two weeks in April. Both invitations were issued more than two years ago.

Some Italian newspapers recently attacked the government for inviting Nasser but Akhbar said the trip will take place regardless of the attacks.

5 billion dollars will be put into our economy this year—

by the owners of life insurance policies

Our nation needs a steady flow of capital to finance its growth . . . and to provide new jobs and opportunities. Where does this money come from?

A large part of it comes from family savings. In fact, the thrift of millions of American families is our greatest single source of economic strength and stability.

Money that works for all of us

Take life insurance as an example—the country's most widely used form of thrift. The money that policyholders pay as premiums is never idle. About $100 billion of life insurance funds are now invested in every part of the country, helping to keep our economy stable and vigorous.

By the end of this year, policyholder funds will add another $5 billion of new capital, creating jobs and opportunities.

Plus—$7 billion in benefit payments

Now look at the other side of the coin—the money that American families receive as life insurance benefits. This will amount to $7 billion of purchasing power this year—to be spent in communities throughout America.

Dollars that do two jobs

This is why life insurance money is often referred to as "the dollars that come back to Main Street twice." First, as funds needed for business and industrial expansion. Second, as money that individual families use to buy the products and services of American business and industry.

Today, 109 million Americans are counting on their life insurance. The nation, in turn, can count on THEM—as a powerful force in keeping our economy sound and growing.

Club Lit the Spark for Teen Canteen

By BETTY CARROLLTON
Constitution Staff Writer

FITZGERALD—Junior clubwomen here ignited the spark that fired citizens to give Fitzgerald's young people what they wanted most: a teen canteen.

And in making plans for the recreation center, the Fitzgerald Junior Woman's Club, a member of the Georgia Federation, followed the advice of those most concerned—the teen-agers.

TO MATCH $6,000

At a board meeting of the organization last spring, a recommendation was made to investigate the possibility of a teen canteen. At the regular club meeting the following day, members agreed such facilities were "badly needed," and voted to support the project to the fullest.

Determined that the idea should be more than a dust-gatherer in the club minutes, the women assigned Mrs. Max Yeager the task of presenting the idea to city recreation committee chairman Wiley Ford.

Mrs. Yeager immediately contacted Mr. Floyd, who took the matter up with the City Council.

(One in a Series)

The council voted to match, up to $6,000, any amount citizens raised toward the recreation center. Fitzgerald's mayor appointed a committee to draw up plans, and to learn what the young people wanted in the way of recreation.

Mrs. Yeager was a member of the committee that drafted a survey sheet for students, asking them to list, in order of preference, what they felt the teen canteen should include. Encouraged by this evidence of sincere interest, students responded quickly. Survey results called for (1) a place to dance, (2) snack bar, (3) reading and TV room, (4) ping pong tables, and (5) billiard tables.

FITZGERALD JUNIOR CLUBWOMEN LEAD CITIZENS TO ACTION
Mrs. May Yeager, Mrs. James Harden Jr., Mrs. Robert Tharp

"As the reaction was observed by our club," reported Mrs. Robert Tharp, president, "it was felt that for too long, people in our community —particularly those who worked with teen-agers —were convinced this was a definite need, but were waiting for someone to set the spark."

The city was quick to fan the spark: Faculty members offered their help and encouragement; Mrs. Roy Johnson, of the local radio station's Woman's World program, heartily endorsed the project, and conducted interviews with teachers and students, airing their views. The sports writer of the local paper devoted columns to the need for the center.

Blueprints drawn up by the mayor's committee met every need tabulated by the students. The building, to be located near the swimming pool and city park, will be built of concrete blocks, and will provide a large area for dancing and parties, TV and reading room, and other facilities requested by the young people.

The Junior Woman's Club set the pace for fund-raising projects, with other civic groups quickly following suit.

$25,000 ALLOCATED

The Fitzgerald juniors' "womanless wedding" netted nearly $400 for the teen canteen. Later, the Beta Sigma Phi sorority sponsored a hilarious "Laff-O-Rama" that resulted in another $400 for the center. Several other organizations have pledged contributions.

During the United Givers' fund drive last fall, the city allocated $2,500 of the quota for the teen canteen fund.

"We feel that with such cooperation, our young people can look forward to having their own recreation center in the not-so-distant future," declared Mrs. James Harden Jr., community achievement chairman.

"When we read of how more detention homes are being provided in Georgia by action of the Legislature, and how juvenile delinquency is still a big problem," added Mrs. Yeager, "we believe our project is a worthy effort to attack such problems in a positive and constructive manner."

TANGIBLE RESULTS

Mrs. Tharp commented that the Fitzgerald Junior Woman's Club "can look with pride at the tangible results of its project," and concluded:

"As the saying goes, 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'"

Invasion Of Security

There have been those who warned me that television was a peace-destroyer, a divider of the home, a time consumer. But why, oh, why didn't some of you TV slaves tell me that it was going to shatter my little sense of security?

Now I'm an old-fashioned mother. That is, I affirm in loud clear tones that Mother Knows Best. (And if there's low satirical laughter in the audience—or worse—I simply pay no attention. No attention at all.) For a long time, due to a hitch many years ago as a movie reviewer, I have set myself up as the family's arbiter and preserver of taste on the cinema.

"Tab Hunter?" I say, laughing lightly. "My dears, such an effete young man! You should have seen Richard Barthelmess!"

They speak of Elizabeth Taylor and I tell them about Clara Bow. They thought "Saronara" was a great picture. I tell them they should have seen "Smilin' Through."

Well, before we got that television set that was all right. They were humble in their discussions of movies with me because I was a person who had lived in what I choose to think of as the Golden Age of Pictures. Naturally Mother Knew Best. Hadn't she seen all the great ones?

Now that television has moved into our front room my security has flown out the window. My children don't laugh and hoot at me. It's even worse than that. They simply avert their faces and avoid the subject because they are so embarrassed for me.

You see I told them "Broadway Melody" was one of the magnificent ones. I told them we got out of high school early to see this forerunner of the musicals back in 1930 and that it was a movie to put all subsequent movies in the shade. Memorable, I said, and I didn't use the word loosely. It IS memorable. I wish I could forget it!

Maybe you were in front of your television set a couple of Saturday nights ago when WSB trotted out "Broadway Melody." It was bad enough to hear them introduce it as a museum piece but I made the most of that. I nodded at the children and said, "See there? I told you!"

So we all settled down with pillows and food. (It's astonishing to me how hungry television makes you.) And in came Bessie Love and Anita Page, those beauties, those paragons, those wonders of my youth. They had hair like dried arrangements, faces like corn bread well soaked in pot likker and their figures . . . well, you couldn't tell much about anything above the knees because of the clothes but what was visible wiggled and twitched and bounced till I thought I'd scream. The children stuffed the pillows in their mouths.

We sat up and saw it through and out of some basic sense of decency the children haven't mentioned it since. I keep remembering it and shivering a little because suppose all the tender recollections of my youth, tracked down and held up for scrutiny today, would turn out like that? I tell you I think the dead past should be allowed to bury its dead, like Mr. Longfellow said.

The only thing that remotely cheers me is the thought of how this year of 1958 will look to my children's children when some enterprising young television man exhumes it in 1978 and holds it up as a "museum piece." Bessie Love and Anita Page, when you get right down to it, didn't look much funnier than the chemise queens look today and I still think "Broadway Melody" is a better song than "All the Way."

New Apricot Pie Will Appeal to Any Taste

By VIRGINIA DYSARD
Constitution Food Editor

There is nothing quite like a piece of tart pie to top off a perfect meal.

Cake has its place and cookies are good between-meal snacks, but pie is the American dessert that probably gets more applause from the men folks than any other one.

Apricot buttermilk pie has an unusual combination of flavors that almost anyone will love. A lightly spiced custard base is made with buttermilk. Canned apricots and orange marmalade are blended into a tart topping and poured over the baked pie to give it a party sparkle. The pie is wonderful too, without the topping.

Besides being good to the taste, custard base desserts are an excellent way to get extra milk and eggs into meals. This is particularly important for adults who love desserts, but have difficulty with too many calories and not enough vitamins and minerals. A dessert which does double duty is in demand for the menu planner.

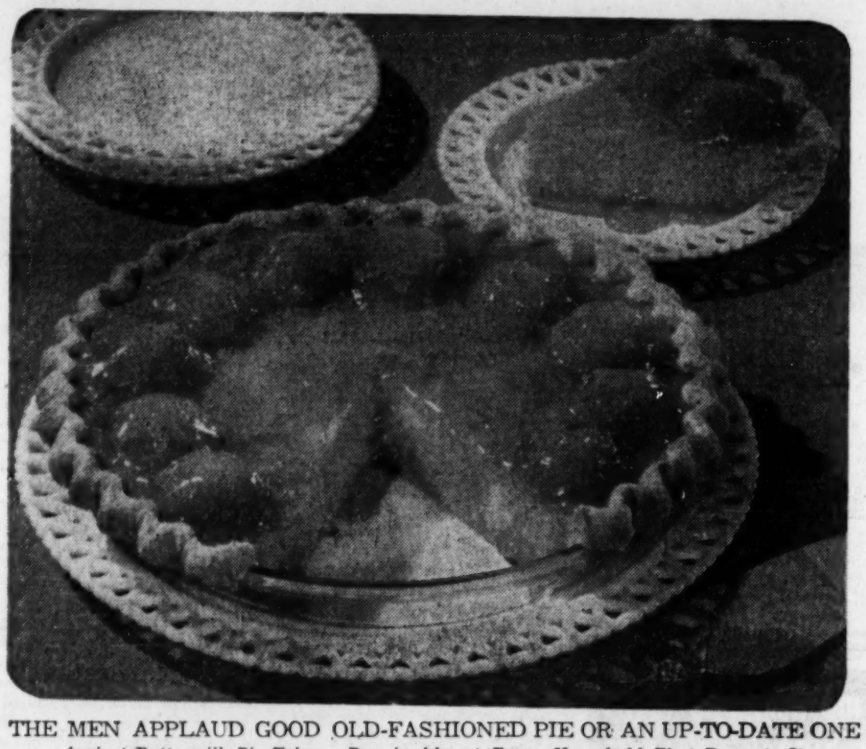

APRICOT GLAZED BUTTERMILK PIE

Pastry for one 9-inch pie shell
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. mace or nutmeg
½ tsp. cinnamon
2 cups buttermilk
2 eggs, beaten slightly
1 No. 303 (1-lb.) can apricot halves
4 tsps. cornstarch
½ cup orange marmalade

Line nine-inch pie pan with pastry making a high fluted edge. Combine and mix sugar, flour, salt, and seasonings in heavy saucepan. Stir in buttermilk. Cook in top of double boiler over boiling water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly.

Beat ½ cup of hot mixture into eggs and then stir it into buttermilk mixture. Bake the pie shell in center of hot oven, 400 degrees, for 5 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees, and pour buttermilk mixture into shell. Bake until filling is set, about 50 minutes. (Do not overbake.) Remove from oven and cool on rack. When cool cover with glaze.

To make glaze, remove apricots from syrup and drain halves well on paper toweling. Mix ¼ cup apricot syrup and cornstarch together until smooth. Heat remaining syrup (about ¾ cup) to boiling. Add cornstarch mixture all at once, stirring constantly; cook until mixture is clear and thickened. Remove from heat and blend in marmalade. Arrange apricot halves, cavity side down, on top of baked pie and cover with glaze. Makes one nine-inch pie.

Doesn't Take Much To Spoil a Baby

How does one spoil a baby?

When he is lying serenely in his crib, smiling at motes in the sun, cooing or laughing at his own state of well-being, pick him up.

When he is lying in bed playing with his hands, his feet, or a tantalizing toy strung almost beyond his reach, pick him up.

When he is sitting in his playpen having a marvelous time fitting one cube into another or just throwing toys out the bars, pick him up.

When he is playing contentedly, anywhere, interrupt his play—every half hour, every hour, every day. Worry for fear he is not having fun by himself.

LOTS OF WAYS

When he doesn't drain the last half ounce of milk from his bottle, worry.

When his elimination misses a day, become frantic.

When he sleeps fewer hours a night than the baby next door (whose mother must stay awake to count), become more frantic.

(These three functions are his own and do not need constant supervision by a parent.)

When he does sleep, pay frequent visits to his crib to be sure he is breathing. Soon he will learn to keep awake and wait for your visits.

EXPERT GIVES OPINION

These are the aids to spoiling set forth by Dr. R. S. Illingsworth, the eminent British pediatrician. Will it spoil a baby to pick him up when he cries? On the contrary, to cry for a long time without being picked up may harm him. Not only may the young baby make himself sick crying, but prolonged crying in infancy is thought to affect adversely personality and character in later life.

Moreover, there is not the slightest evidence that babies develop bad habits if picked up within reason when they cry. Some babies are more demanding than others. Picked up when they cry as often as a busy mother can, they settle down.

MAY BURN

This does not mean a baby should be picked up at his slightest whimper. Nor does it mean his disposition will be wrecked for life if his mother can't get to him for 10 minutes because the souffle may burn.

It means she should not deliberately let him cry for long periods for fear of spoiling him. "He will not, at any stage, be spoiled by being loved," Dr. Illingsworth writes. "You like being loved. Does love spoil you? Why should it spoil him?"

New Sweaters Are Longer

When fashion swings into a new cycle—as I've said here before—everything in every fashion field is affected by it sooner or later. Look at what is happening to sweaters—surely one of the most conservative fashion strongholds.

In the first place, the new sweaters are longer — hip length, as a rule. In the second place they are much looser — almost straight in line. The result is that they have the same relaxed easy look as that of the barely fitted silhouette in dresses. This new look in sweaters certainly changes our former concept of the "sweater girl" but I think it is definitely much smarter.

Miss Farlowe Is Wed to Lt. Boggs

At a twilight ceremony solemnized at the College Park First Methodist Church on Saturday, Miss Elizabeth Lena Farlowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Junius K. Farlowe of College Park, was married to Lt. Larry Buford Boggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Boggs of Villa Rica.

The Rev. W. Earl Strickland officiated at the services which was followed by a reception in the church parlors, with Mr. and Mrs. Farlowe as hosts.

Lee Campbell of Villa Rica and Atlanta was best man for Lt. Boggs, and his usher-groomsmen were Harold Crawford of Madison, Ted Carden, Leroy Burson and Kenneth Smallwood.

The bride's sister, Kennette, was her maid of honor, and serving as bridesmaids were Misses Linda Derrick and Eleanor Jackson. The bride's sister, Jane, and the bridegroom's sister, Brenda, were junior bridesmaids.

The bride's small cousin, J. Wiley Hodges, was the ring bearer.

Mr. Farlowe gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of blush pink taffeta fashioned with an overskirt of tulle and panels of sequin-studded Alencon lace.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will live near Quantico, Va., where Lt. Boggs will be stationed until September.

Sandra, 11, Won Grim Battle

For five years, young Sandra Reynolds grappled with the grim spectre of death.

And, although she realized the phantom was hovering about her, throughout the battle she appeared as healthy and happy as any of her playmates.

Today, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reynolds is free of battle scars and secure in the knowledge that she conquered one of the most dreaded enemies: cancer.

The likable youngster has a variety of interests to keep her busy, in addition to her studies at Perry Elementary School, where she is secretary of her class and makes good grades. She plays basketball, reads a lot ("mostly biographies") and enjoys baking cakes ("She bakes better cakes than her mother does," Mr. Reynolds said proudly.)

This week Sandra and her parents will take her story to the nation.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed girl, "Miss Georgia Cancer Crusader of 1958," will represent the state at the cured cancer congress Tuesday in Washington, where she will meet President and Mrs. Eisenhower, Sen. Richard Russell and Sen. Herman Talmadge.

TO LIGHT SWORD

When she returns, she will light the cancer sword in downtown Atlanta April 7 to symbolize the opening of the crusade in Georgia. A fire truck will transport the girl to the ceremonies ("But not if Daddy drives it," she said with a smile).

On April 8, Sandra will be a guest of honor at the kick-off breakfast of the Fulton County unit at the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel.

Sandra and her parents have demonstrated great interest in the cancer program and have long been active in volunteer work for the American Cancer Society.

Sandra's battle with cancer began after a kidney operation when she was just two years old.

Like most adults, Catherine and Ernest Perry had never really given much thought to the dread sickness.

"We had never known anyone who had cancer," attractive Mrs. Reynolds said, "and it never occurred to us that a two-year-old child could be stricken with it."

REAL WORRY BEGAN

When Catherine first learned of her daughter's condition, it "took a little while to sink in." And in the quiet of night following Sandra's operation, the real worry, underlined with heartbreak, began. Worry that did not leave for five years. But her parents' courage and faith were Sandra's most valuable weapons throughout the fight.

"As soon as she could understand," Mrs. Reynolds explained, "we told her all about her condition. It wasn't easy to accept, but after we faced it, much of the fear was gone."

The Reynolds family never tried to hide Sandra's condition, even when dozens of friends were criticizing them for it ("How can you bear to let people KNOW?" was a question frequently asked them). And, because her parents armed Sandra with a complete understanding of her condition, she cooperated with doctors, never dreaded her frequent visits for treatments. In fact, her experiences with men and women in the medical profession have helped the youngster realize what she wants to do when she grows up.

"I want to be a doctor," she said firmly.

COMPLETELY CURED

Although she was declared completely cured nearly four years ago, the active youngster continues her check-ups. The entire family, including Sandra's sister, six-year-old Susan, make annual visits to the doctor for examinations.

"We are free of worry about Sandy now," Mrs. Reynolds said, "but we recognize the possibility that another member of the family may some day have cancer. We don't live in fear, but we do know it is important to be aware of the danger.

"Cancer is not confined to any sex or age group," she continued. "It could happen to everybody."

Sandra and her parents know the girl is alive today because she was taken to the doctor in time for proper treatment. They feel her story points up the great responsibility of all parents in protesting the lives and health of their children.

Teen-age Mail

Too Young To Wait For Soldier

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am a girl of 15 and feel very confused and unsure of myself. I have been writing to a boy who is 19 and in the Army. He hasn't actually asked me to go steady with him but he is very serious in his letters. I have only been out with him three times but he told me he loved me and asked me to wait for him.

I would like your opinion as to whether or not I should wait for him or go out with other boys. Whenever I do accept a date with another boy I feel guilty and as if I am not being fair to the boy in the Army. He is very nice and I wouldn't want to hurt him.

In my opinion, it is very doubtful this boy really loves you since it takes more than three dates even to get to know a person, to say nothing about loving him. There is no doubt, however, that at your age it is absurd for you to wait for him or to feel guilty when you date others.

Don't make the mistake of becoming too serious, too young and without even a real basis for doing it. I have received other letters from girls who have made this mistake. They write they thought it was "love" and stayed home waiting, missing fun and friends. Then they woke up to the fact they were just in love with love, not the boy. When the dream was shattered it left them confused, lonely and miserable.

My advice is to get out and enjoy yourself. Date other boys and take part in mixed teen-age activities. It just isn't sensible for a 15-year-old to sit home night after night waiting for a boy she has dated only a few times. If you want to continue writing to the boy I suggest you keep your letters on a friendly but platonic basis. There will be plenty of time, after you have finished school, and he is once more a civilian, to decide about a more serious relationship.

Mrs. Wander Is Wed to Mr. Adler

Mrs. Celia Gordon Wander, daughter of A. Dave Gordon and the late Mrs. Gordon, was married at a Sunday afternoon ceremony to Howard Adler, son of Mrs. Sadie Adler and the late Henry L. Adler of New York.

Rabbi Sydney Mossman officiated at the home of the bride in the presence of relatives and a few out-of-town guests.

Mr. Gordon gave his daughter in marriage, and she was attended by Mrs. Daniel Applebaum of Whitestone, Long Island, the bridegroom's sister, as matron of honor.

Miss Patricia Gordon of Atlanta was maid of honor for her sister, and Monroe Adler of Brooklyn, N.Y., twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Ushering were the bride's four brothers, Bob and Lawrence Gordon of Cumming, Milton and Walter Gordon of Atlanta, and the bridegroom's brother-in-law, David Applebaum.

A reception followed the service, with Mrs. Lawrence Gordon and Mrs. Bob Gordon keeping the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. Adler and his bride will live at 1322 Brookforest Dr., NE. He is manufacturer's representative in the South for Empire Shirt Trimming Co. Mrs. Adler is a member of the James L. Key Elementary School faculty, and is president of the Delta Phi Epsilon Alumnae Assn. of Atlanta.

Miss Waters To Marry Mr. Patrick

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Waters of Rome announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Norma Waters, to Bobby Dan Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Patrick of Rome.

Remedy for Acute Shortage of Engineers To Be Discussed at Conference at Tech

The acute shortage of scientists and engineers can possibly be alleviated by better utilization of the trained men we already have.

G. M. Read

This will be the theme of a Georgia-Alabama conference scheduled to meet at Georgia Tech Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4, according to Richard Wiegand, director of short courses and conferences at the engineering school.

"We are going to talk about how to get one-and-a-half engineer's work out of just one engineer," Wiegand said.

Grantville M. Read, chief engineer for E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, will speak on "Industry's Viewpoint on Utilization" at the 10 a.m. meeting Thursday.

At 11, Joseph R. Goeke, research director, Public Opinion Index for Industry, Princeton, N.J., will discuss "Motivation of Engineers." The afternoon will be devoted to panel discussions.

One panel will talk about "Creating and Environment for Engineers and Scientists" while another discusses "Increasing the Engineer's Output." A third panel will discuss "Training Programs and Educational Opportunities."

The three panels will run concurrently on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, so that people attending the conference will have a chance to take part in at least two of the panel discussions.

Dr. Edward L. Katzenbach Jr., director of Defense Studies Program, Harvard University, will deliver an address at a dinner Thursday night.

At the Friday session, Dr. William Torpey, consultant on the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers will preside. A summary of findings will be given by Paul H. Robbins, executive director, National Society of Professional Engineers.

The conference is sponsored by the Georgia and Alabama Societies of Professional Engineers and the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers.

Violin Concert Offers 1,000 Japan Young

TOKYO (AP) — A concert by a thousand violinists, aged 3 to 15, was given at the Tokyo Metropolitan Gymnasium Sunday.

The young artists' program included the first movements of Bach's Concerto in A Minor and Vivaldi's Concerto in G Minor before an audience of 7,000.

Most Cities Have Income, Sales Taxes, Gallery Told

Tax funds for financing services offered by Georgia's burgeoning cities were discussed by three municipal experts on Press Gallery, WSB television show, Sunday afternoon.

James E. Jackson, alderman from Atlanta's first ward and chairman of a committee on tax sources; Elmer George, director of the Georgia Municipal Assn., and Hill Healan, director of governmental affairs for the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, were panel guests on the show.

They were questioned by Journal City Editor Don Carter, and Journal city hall reporter Ed Hughes. Jack Spalding, editor of the Journal, acted as moderator on the program, sponsored this week by The Journal.

All three of the experts agreed that cities must find new sources of revenue, other than an increase in property taxes. Two sources discussed were an income tax and a sales tax.

Jackson outlined how the cost of municipal services had increased at a much faster rate than city income. Healan said that nearly every city of more than 500,000 in the United States had either an income tax or a sales tax.

George said that cities must get more tax money back from the state. He said that the state had got into the sales and income tax fields, and this has kept the cities from using these two sources of revenue.

Jackson said that Fulton County alone paid into state coffers more than $33,000,000 last year in sales tax funds. George said that the state gets less than $1,000,000 annually from property taxes.

Jackson said that Atlanta schools get only about one-quarter of their funds from the state, whereas in rural counties the figure approaches 100 per cent.

All of the municipal experts said they would like to see a "home rule" bill passed in the state legislature.

Huge Waste Basket Symbolizes Atlanta Street Cleanup Campaign

A bright yellow, 8-foot-tall waste basket that will hold 800 gallons of litter has been placed on the traffic island at Marietta and Forsyth streets as part of the "Keep Atlanta Beautiful" campaign of the Women's Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta.

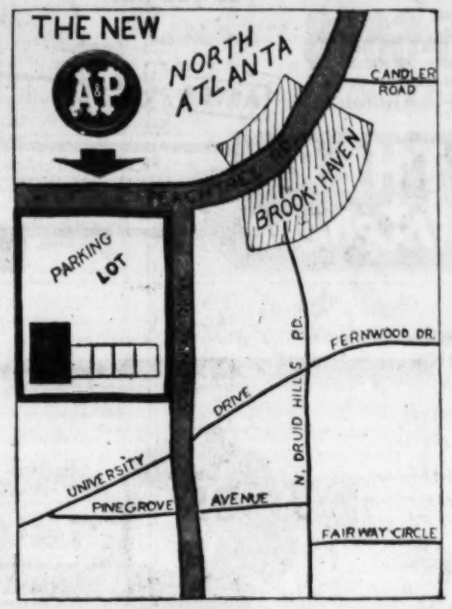

The giant container would have to be emptied four times a day to equal the amount of litter picked up daily on downtown Atlanta's streets, Mrs. Gladys Upshaw, chairman of the chamber's Keep Atlanta Beautiful drive, said.

Mrs. Upshaw estimated that Atlantans "could save $100,000 a year simply by not dropping paper on the streets."

The cleanup drive, which will run throughout April, will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday with ceremonies at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth, Mrs. Upshaw said.

Border Observers Plan Pondered for Algeria

Hammarskjold Views Sought On Tunisian, French Impasse

By THOMAS P. RONAN
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

LONDON—The United States-British "good offices" team attempting to settle the dispute between France and Tunisia is studying the possibility of having United Nations observers stationed on the Tunisian-Algerian border. Diplomatic sources said Sunday that Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. Secretary General, will be asked his views on this move.

Hammarskjold arrived here by air Sunday for a visit until Thursday as a guest of the British Government. He has spent four days in Moscow, where he conferred with top-ranking Soviet officials.

CONTINUE BOYCOTT

While in Moscow he reiterated his desire to have the Soviet Union resume participation in the UN Disarmament Commission. But the Soviet Government has asserted it intends to continue its boycott.

Deputy Under-secretary of State Robert Murphy, who represents the U.S. on the team, flew in Sunday morning from Paris, where he had been conferring with French officials. Harold Beeley, undersecretary at the Foreign Office and his British opposite number, came there Saturday from Paris.

Murphy told questioners at the London airport that he thought the team was "moving along" and he added "I hope in the right direction." He said it was not clear when the team would be returning to Tunisia, but that he expected to go back to Paris in a day or two. He also said he did not know whether he would be seeing Hammarskjold.

WILL SIT IN

The UN official is to confer Monday with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain's permanent representative to the UN and another of Sunday's arrivals, will sit in and Beeley also is expected to participate.

The question of stationing U.N. observers on the Tunisian-Algerian border is said here to be only in the exploratory stage and no definite proposal has yet been formulated. Use of a U.N. force, such as that on the Israeli-Egyptian border, is not contemplated.

France has suggested establishment of a neutral commission to end the movement of Algerian insurgents and arms for them across the Tunisian-Algerian border. She is said to be insisting on a move of this kind as a condition for any agreement with Tunisia, but not as yet to have agreed specifically to use of UN observers.

Tunisian politicians have stressed that their country will make no concessions on Algerian frontier control or on Tunisian support for the Algerian insurgents.

Diplomats here are still hopeful that agreement can be reached. They find encouragement in the fact that negotiations through the U.S.-British team are continuing.

There is no definite agenda for Hammarskjold's talks with Lloyd. But it is believed certain they will cover the Franco-Tunisian situation, disarmament, summit talks and the Middle East.

UN Reports West Aid at $5.5 Billion

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Western governments and international agencies distributed $5,510,000,000 in economic aid to underdeveloped lands in the 1954-56 period, according to a United Nations report published Sunday.

Most of this, $4,960,000,000, was provided directly by individual countries. Of this amount $3,740,000,000 consisted of grants and the remainder of long-term loans.

The United States contributed by far the largest share of direct aid, $2,800,000,000. France provided $1,410,000,000, and Britain supplied $460,000,000. Other major contributors were Australia, Canada and The Netherlands.

The totals did not include grants or loans by private institutions.

The figures were presented in the 1957 UN Statistical Yearbook. Statistics on economic aid were included in the yearbook, for the first time. The 675-page volume also contained demographic, economic, financial, social and cultural data, covering the 20-year period ended in 1956.

"For lack of adequate information," no figures were provided for economic aid by the Soviet Union and the countries of eastern Europe.

A study issued in January by the State department estimated the Soviet bloc had promised a total of $1,500,000,000 in economic aid to 10 underdeveloped nations during the last two and a half years.

Plane With 88 Takes a Steep Dive To Avert Collision

NEW YORK (UP) —The pilot of a plane carrying 88 persons narrowly averted a collision in flight with a twin-engine plane Sunday by putting his craft into a steep, 100-foot dive.

Eight of the 83 passengers and 5 crew members aboard the National Airlines DC6 were injured slightly when Capt. Jack A. Guthrie, flying over Coyle, N.J. enroute to Idlewild Airport from Miami, suddenly saw a plane bearing down on him and plunged the airliner downward.

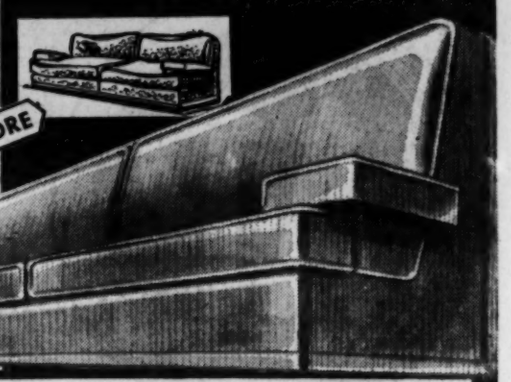

The maneuver threw many of the passengers from their seats amid a shower of small luggage from the overhead racks.

After levelling off, Guthrie apologized to the passengers over the loudspeaker system for the sudden dive. He landed the plane at Idlewild some 15 minutes after the near disaster. The injured were treated at the airport and released.

Storms Delaying Rescue Of 4 Marooned Skiers

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—Storm clouds reaching four miles high Sunday balked all aerial efforts to aid four student skiers stranded at 11,000 feet in the High Sierras. One of the marooned four is believed seriously ill with pneumonia.

Warrant Officer, J. J. Cooney, Army helicopter pilot, was standing by at Fresno, however, hoping the ceiling would lift enough to let him fly to Yosemite Park headquarters.

Cooney said he then would be within 20 minutes flight of the snow-piled camp of the four students on Mt. Lyell, 25 miles from the Yosemite Valley floor. He said then he would be ready for a quick rescue hop with the first weather break.

HEAVY STORM

An Air Force attempt to drop a paramedic team Sunday was balked by the clouds of a heavy Sierra storm.

Two of the four marooned Stanford students are girls. Lenore Lamb, 21, of Orinda, Calif., and Margaret Meyer, 21, of Seattle and Mike Roberts, 21, of Neenah, Wis., stayed with ailing William Pope, 21, of San Francisco, when two other companions hiked out for help.

All were worn by fatigue on a cross-country ski hike started eight days ago. They had been hit by frequent mountain storms.

RESCUE PARTY

A 10-man land rescue party struggled through deep snow toward the students but they were not expected to reach them until Tuesday.

Originally there were six in the student party but when Pope became ill two of them, Bart Hooley and Mac Allen, left the party last Thursday and returned to Yosemite for help. Hooley is from Reno, Nev. Allen attends the University of California but is a member of the Stanford Alpine Club. Both were suffering from exhaustion.

Wife, Freed in Death of Children, Dies

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Mrs. Eunice (Sally) Brillhart, 32, the serviceman's wife who was freed last summer from a life sentence in the death of her three children, died here Friday it was learned Sunday.

A St. Joseph Hospital spokesman said Mrs. Brillhart had been hospitalized for several weeks. Sources outside the hospital said she died from cancer.

Delay in announcement of Mrs Brillhart's death was caused by the request of her husband, Sgt. Robert Brillhart, to the hospital.

The Army court found that Mrs. Brillhart had killed three of her children by dropping them on their heads during a 13-months period the family was stationed in Africa.

The Army reopened the case after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that military courts have no jurisdiction over civilians who accompany U.S. servicemen overseas. The Army announced last July that the remainder of Mrs. Brillhart's sentence had been remitted.

Cost of Proxy Fight Can Save Silberstein

By LESLIE GOULD

The only thing that is going to save Leopold D. Silberstein from a sudden exit from his Penn.-Texas Corp., is the high cost of waging a proxy fight.

Leslie Gould

The cost of an all-out proxy fight on a company such as Penn.-Texas with 26,000 shareowners would run from a half to a million dollars. That kind of money isn't as easy to come by as it once was.

This is why dissident directors—there are now four—are going along with a compromise slate for the May 5 shareowners meeting.

This slate proposes four pro-Silberstein directors, four opposition directors and one supposed neutral. A nine-man board instead of the present twelve.

As part of the compromise, an outside lawyer is to investigate some of the company's financial deals.

A cleanup of the management is long overdue. What has happened to the shareowners' equity—from $22.87½ a share in the market to $3.75 currently, with the recent low of $2.87½—says that plainer than any words.

While the shareowners have suffered substantial losses, others have cleaned up fortunes running into the millions in financial deals with Silberstein and his directors.

Those who have cleaned up include mystery clients of Swiss banks, a cafe society playboy and promoters of sale and lease back deals for the company's plants.

Some of the lease back deals commit the company to millions of dollars in rentals. These leases run for years and include one for the Liberty Aircraft Products plant on Long Island.

The test of the compromise rather than a renewal of last year's proxy fight will be how far the management cleanup goes and what it accomplishes in the way of improving the position of shareowners and the workers.

As it stands today, Silberstein; his son, Charles; Oscar Chapman, the New Deal former Cabinet member, and Milton Weisman will continue as Silberstein management directors. In this connection, it is interesting that Weisman, who is a law partner of Rep. Emanuel Cellar, should now be listed as a Silberstein representative. When he was brought on the board a couple of months ago without prior shareowner vote, he was presented as an outside, neutral director.

Aaron Jacoby, member of the N.Y. State Public Service Commission, went on the board at the same time as an outside neutral. He has since succeeded Silberstein as board chairman. He is presented as a neutral director in the May 5 slate.

In addition to the deals for stock of Fairbanks, Morse, which Silberstein sought to take over, and the lease backs, some other matters need airing as to this operation. These are:

Nepotism. In addition to his son being on the payroll, stock was bought through a son-in-law—Peter Cats.

Fees paid to brokerage firms which got investors into the Penn.-Texas shares around the high prices.

Expense accounts.

Finders' fees paid in the stock and real estate deals.

Finders' fees for obtaining loans.

Amounts paid over the market for Fairbanks, Morse and Niles-Bement stock. The company took over Niles. Also, the identities of those receiving the above the market prices for stock.

There is plenty to be investigated.

Stock Brokers Here Oppose Fee Boost

All but one of the seven Atlanta brokerage firms that are members of the New York Stock Exchange are opposed to a proposed increase in brokerage commission rates, an official of one of them said here Sunday.

F. D. Willis, Atlanta partner in the firm of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, said his company is among those looking with disfavor upon the proposed increase approved recently by the NYSE board of governors.

The hike would become effective May 1 and boost member firm revenues by some 13 per cent if approved by a majority of NYSE member companies. Willis said he felt the hike would be "inopportune" at this time in view of recent government actions to ease credit.

Marking Time Earns Success for Georgian

By a Staff Writer

CUTHBERT—The philosopher who said progress couldn't be made by marking time didn't know Mark H. Rhodes.

For 27 years Rhodes, a Randolph countian, has been marking time and by so doing has built a business known worldwide.

There are few people who haven't counted some seconds, minutes, or hours with the aid of a mechanical timer invented by Rhodes.

Housewives use Rhodes' timing implements to clock their cooking. Industries employ his timers to operate switches, control flow of fuels and regulate various industrial processes.

A Rhodes timer stops automatic washing machines. His devices prevent sunbathers from getting burned by sunlamps. They guarantee that your toaster will produce just the right shade of browness.

The armed forces utilize his timers to open parachutes. Medical men use them to control X-rays.

The red-headed inventor also manufacturers parking meters.

Rhodes, a native of Coleman, is president of M. H. Rhodes, Inc., headquartered in Hartford, Conn. Coleman is a farming community about seven miles south of Cuthbert. There he grew up on his father's farm—and invented a safety razor strapper.

After successfully marketing his safety-razor strapper, Rhodes soon turned his thinking to new inventions. Instead of going to college, he tackled the business world energetically.

Rhodes tells it this way:

"One night I stopped at a little hotel in Lincoln, Neb., on a tour as a house-to-house book salesman. That night as I was going to bed, I walked over to the wall to switch out the light. I groped my way in the darkness back to bed, and hit my shin a tremendous wallop."

While most folks would pass such a knock in the dark off as just one of those things, it set Rhodes to thinking. "Why couldn't there be a device that would permit the light to stay on a little longer after the switch is thrown, allowing a person to find his way back to bed?"

He developed a delayed time switch, sold out his interests in the Kriss Kross razor strap business, went to Connecticut, perfected his new invention, and set up shop. The industry grew. During World War II his company was called upon to make secret parts of the Norden bombsight. For that work, Rhodes received two government citations.

He does not have formal engineering or mechanical training, but he built a business based on his own inventions.

He dreams up the idea, designs it, engineers it, and even participates in the making of a model.

He made a single-handed start in 1930. Now his factories produce more than a million timers and about 50,000 parking meters a year.

His doctors told him to quit working because of a heart condition. He has turned his sprawling industrial empire over to his sons Williams and Mark Jr. Today he and Mrs. Rhodes are living on their breeze-swept island off Key West, Fla.

Rhodes' sister, Mrs. H. H Lawley of 1305 Citadel Dr., NE, Atlanta, said her brother has named the island appropriately. "The Isle of Mark Time."

Rocket Book Starts Sparks Flying Here

By BOB WILLIMON

It was the PTA ladies who "got" Charlie.

He didn't mind so much when the detectives and the delegation from the businessmen's association put the heat on him for advertising for sale a book on "How to Make Rockets."

It all began some three weeks ago when Charlie—a 25-year-old, clean-cut Atlanta bookkeeper who lives in a neat little house-behind-a-house and has five mouths to feed—was casting about for a way to supplement his income.

He thought he had come upon a "natural" when he found an ad in a magazine where he could order the how-to-make-rockets books and resell them locally for a profit.

TEENS' DESIRE

It didn't occur to him at the time that thousands of teen-age children would like nothing better than to know how to make rockets.

He was, he said, angling for folks mature enough to know how to protect themselves from the dangers of rocket-making.

The phone at Charlie's address nearly "rang off the hook" the first couple of days after his small ad appeared in the miscellaneous section of the Sunday paper.

His total investment of $15—for ads and for several sample copies of the book bought to "see if they woud go"—resulted in the sale of two books.

AN UPROAR

It also resulted in a storm of protest, Charlie said.

Up-in-arms mothers—filled, according to Charlie, with visions of a big dangerous rocket laboratory "right here in their neighborhood"—called up to read him off for even thinking of such a thing.

Alert PTA ladies also got wind of Charlie's attempt to make a little scratch. The first thing Charlie knew, he had a delegation on his doorstep.

"If I'd thought a group like that would be on my neck, I'd never run the ad in the first place," a chastened Charlie mused.

FOR SAFETY

The Atlanta Better Business Bureau takes a stern view of rocket-making by kids. "They've made of explosives that should not be in the hands of children" said James W. Stephens, executive manager.

"It's a safety thing more than anything else," he added. I would suggest that anyone receiving literature on how to handle rockets, or anything of an explosive nature, check with our bureau or the Atlanta Fire Department."

Charlie didn't say what his next venture-for-profit would be. He's sure of one thing, though. It won't be rocket-book peddling.

"I wouldn't advise anybody to try that," he said.

Pope Prays For Averting Of New War

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII told a great gathering in St. Peter's basilica on this Palm Sunday, "May God prevent the peril of a new war ... terrible and disastrous for all humanity."

The pontiff spoke to 30,000 members of Italian families who have relatives still listed as missing in World War II.

The audience was the main event in the Pope's activities on a Palm Sunday that ushered in the Holy Week observances in Rome.

Early in the morning the pontiff received a decorated palm from Msgr. Canisio Van Lierde, sacristan of Vatican City. Other palms were given to the Pope by high officials of the Vatican court and the Roman curate.

The Pope recalled that at the outset of World War II he warned, "Nothing is lost with peace — everything can be lost with war."

That warning was not heeded, he said.

"War broke out, with its ruin, its disregard of rights, dispersion of families, and the explosion of hatreds and violence," he said.

"The dead return to dust forever, mingled with the earth on which they fought and fell. We do not know whether the missing are living or dead.

"Death is not the end, but a transformation of life. Even the missing are not entirely alone, for those who have faith, God knows where they are. God sees them and knows whether they are in need, and none of them is really alone."

Blood Relay Keeps Shot Man Alive

MONROE, Mich. (UP) — A young father of two wounded in a holdup attempt to get money "to buy milk for the kids" was kept alive Sunday through a 120-mile relay of blood by state police.

Curtis England, 20, Newport, Mich., was reported to be "holding his own" at Monroe General Hospital after state police in a four-car relay brought nine pints of blood from the Red Cross at Lansing to replace that lost from a bullet wound in the stomach.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE

At his bedside was his wife, Glenda, 19, under police guard. She had waited for him in the car with the two children Saturday night while he tried to rob a combination grocery and gas station at Petersburg, Mich.

She said she had told him to get some milk and didn't know he was going to pull a holdup.

England worked in a Monroe music store, but his wife said he complained about not having money to buy things for the family, pocketed his revolver and said he was going out to get some money. She said he finally calmed down and they went for a ride, stopping at a station near Petersburg to get milk.

PULLS GUN

England went in, asked for cigarets, pulled his gun on owner Thomas L. Martin, 61, and threatened to kill him unless he gave him the money. He said he was "hard up."

Martin whipped a revolver from beneath his shirt, and shot England.

EXCELLENT WHOLESALE SUPPLY BUSINESS

SENATOR DUDLEY J. LE BLANC, one of America's best known and foremost merchandisers, the man who originated and sold millions of dollars of HADACOL, now heads a company manufacturing a new, revolutionary product in a different field, expected to gross well into the millions. He needs a distributor who will be given this exclusive area and if you have had at least one year's sales experience or sales management experience, a good character background and $5,000 to $10,000 to invest in your own wholesale distributing business, he would like to hear from you. The product will be backed by a powerful program of TV, radio, newspaper and/or direct mail advertising. Income is limited only by your own initiative and qualifications. All inquiries are confidential, will be answered promptly and there will be a factory representative to interview you in the next few days. When answering please give background, age, financial status, etc., and phone number.

Mother's Health May Mar Unborn

The health of a pregnant woman may be reflected in her offspring. This is true if infection occurs or she needs iron or thyroid. A British physician believes illness and stress during pregnancy also affect the development of the child and his health during infancy.

These conclusions were reached after comparing the answers given by the mothers of 102 retarded and 450 normal children concerning their mental and physical condition during pregnancy.

Sixty-six per cent of the mothers of the retarded and 30 per cent of the mothers of the normal youngsters had been sick or harassed at some time during their pregnancy.

What kind of illnesses were encountered by the mothers of the retarded youngsters? None had

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—
Worry may not shorten life but it surely plays havoc with it.

German measles but 12 had toxemia of pregnancy. The others suffered from rheumatic fever, asthma, peptic ulcer, heart trouble, or other disease.

Emotional upsets occurred in 38: nine had matrimonial problems, seven a rift with relatives, and in 12 the husband or another child died or was injured or ill. There were seven instances of eviction threats, nine survived shocks or accidents including bombings, and 13 became so disturbed they were treated by psychiatrists.

Mental retardation occurred in the offspring and more than one-half showed signs of poor health during the early months of life. They were under par in many respects and seemed to lack resistance to the hazards of infancy. They failed to gain weight or were subject to nutritional or respiratory diseases; 15 per cent had congenital malformations.

Not all illnesses and shocks during pregnancy are followed by dire results. Other studies have revealed, for example, that many women get sick during pregnancy but the majority have normal babies.

It is difficult to explain this discrepancy except that the mothers of backward progeny search carefully into the gestation period to find a cause. If the baby is normal, they minimize or forget any distressing events that occurred during pregnancy.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

GOREN on BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K 10 3 ♥J 9 7 ♦A 6 3 ♣AK 10 5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Double	1 spade	Pass

What is your response?

A.—Two spades. In this sequence of bidding North's response is not forcing. When a bid is made over an adverse double great strength is denied, for, with a good hand, responder's proper procedure is to redouble. This hand has some attractive features, however, and a raise is recommended. Without a heart stopper, the raise is infinitely superior to a rebid of one no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠AJ 9 3 ♥6 3 ♦KJ 6 ♣AK 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 diam.	Pass	1 spade
Pass	2 clubs	Pass	?

What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. This may seem a bit irregular in view of the fact that we have such a distinct preference for clubs, but the bid is employed in a temporizing manner. The hand must be bid in such a way as to convince partner that he should bid a slam if he is not faced with a loss of two quick heart tricks. The jump in diamonds will be followed by a strong raise in clubs on the next round. Investigation by means of Blackwood will not be helpful for partner might have the materials of slam in a hand that contains only one ace.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠K Q 10 6 3 2 ♥5 ♦9 ♣K 10 8 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trp.	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trp.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four clubs. Opposite an opening bid which counts 19 points in high cards, your hand holds forth good prospects of a slam. Partner's action over your four club bid should prove enlightening. He will realize you have 10 or 11 cards in the black suits and if he holds the controls he will be in position to bid a slam.

Q. 4—Your right hand opponent has opened with one spade and you hold:
♠A K Q 6 3 2 ♥8 4 3 ♦7 ♣A 9 8
What action do you take?

A.—None. Pass and let nature take its course. A big demerit for doubling or naming the spade suit at this point.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠A Q J 10 6 5 2 ♥A 8 ♦A 7 ♣A 4
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 no trp.	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—A slam bid is called for and six spades is our choice. It is reasonable to expect partner to produce two kings and a queen which should give you a splendid play for slam, depending on the spade finesse at worst.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠A 7 3 ♥KJ 10 6 3 ♦J 10 ♣KQ 8
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 no trp.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Six no trump. With this balanced hand containing distributed values, no effort should be made to play at a suit. Partner has at least 19 points in high cards and you have 14, plus added features, which are sufficient for a small slam contract, but not enough to justify a try for the grand slam.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠AQJ ♥6 ♦A K Q 10 7 4 ♣Q J 5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diam.	1 heart	Double	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—We would give no thought to standing for the double, but would prefer to proceed on to game and conceivably even a slam. There are several courses open. Our preferred call is a cue bid of two hearts, forcing to game.

Solution to Saturday's Puzzle.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Why do the newspapers, radio and television feature the bad news?"—(Note to this space)

(Answer) I don't know that they do.

It is a pleasant thing to read . . . of one who did some noble deed . . . who saved a ship or flagged a train . . . or plugged a leaking water main . . . for all too often we run out . . . of something nice to think about.

But, strange to say, most people like . . . to read about a railroad strike . . . a sinking ship, a fire or flood . . . or some volcano flinging mud . . . and lava on the folks who know . . . that going, as volcanoes go . . . the time will come when they must flee . . . or be submerged in the debris.

The comic books all reek with sin . . . of gangsters who have been "done in" . . . of two-gun men who love to kill . . . and bury people on "boot-hill" . . . of women wronged and men beguiled . . . and all this fascinates a child.

The women, too, are not immune . . . when some first child is born in June . . . they all count backwards to be sure . . . the youngster isn't premature . . . so, I believe we are agreed . . . that what most people want to read . . . is news that's terrible or sad . . . and isn't good unless it's bad.

Why Does Easter Fall On Different Dates?

Easter, as you very well know by this time, falls on Sunday, April 6. That's this year, of course.

Have you ever wondered why Easter falls on a different date each year—even a different Sunday? Well, I wondered, too, so I found out. Easter falls on the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox.

Here's how that comes out as April 6: The vernal equinox came at 10:06 p.m. on March 20. That's when the sun crossed the equator on his long march north.

The next full moon comes on April 3, and, naturally, Easter is the first Sunday after that. That explains how, but why?

The last days of Christ coincided with the Passover feast of the Jews. Remember the Biblical account of the Last Supper? Anyway, the Bible tells us that Christ was crucified on the day of the Feast of the Passover, which was the 14th day of the month of Nisan.

Here's where it gets complicated: The Jewish calendar had 12 lunar months, or 354 days. Every now and then the ancients would throw in an extra month to bring the calendar in line with the solar calendar.

Easter Shifts Dates

So Easter—and the Jewish Passover—shifted dates each year in relation to the Julian calendar, then in use by the Roman rulers of the world. The Julian calendar was calculated on the movement of the earth about the sun.

Then later the civilized world adopted the Gregorian calendar, which we still use. England, and the then American Colonies, adopted the new calendar in 1752.

But Easter has remained a movable date, falling on any date of the month, but always Sunday, between March 22 and April 25.

There has been considerable agitation by various groups to adopt a standard calendar in which all holidays will fall on the same weekday and the same day of the month each year. The United Nations has even considered the question. But for the time being at least, Easter will still come on the first Sunday after the full moon after the vernal equinox.

Name Comes From Germans

When Christianity came to the Teutons, it borrowed some of the ancient customs and took advantage of already existing festivals and times of celebration.

The word Easter comes from "Eostur-monath," or Easter month, corresponding to our April, and was dedicated to a Teutonic goddess of spring named "Eostre" or "Ostara."

So Christianity borrowed and grew.

Daily Guide — Exaggeration, lack of judgment and false hopes are the pitfalls one might run into today. There could be a tendency ot talk too much, buy unwisely, and go too far, so discount some of that optimistic feeling. All Arians should guard tongue and pen today.

The evening hours are much more constructive in tone, with stronger support for prudent action.

Thereis a full moon on Thursday, so gather scattered interests and projects together to push over the finish line this week. Tomorrow excellent for perfecting details.

Happy Birthday, Aries! This could be an unusually full year for you with some constructive foundations being laid for exploiting new talents and development originality. Seek the support of older people, professional or educational contacts. Fo rthe next few months, partnerships are important, with marriage a possibility for those eligible. Later, finances may go through a shakeup hold onto your pocketbook during the last half of the year, and resist the impulse to spend capital or savings. Make new starts in June.

Ice Cream Boom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation may be going through a recession, but the folks who make ice cream aren't worried. The National Assn. of Retail Ice Cream Manufacturers concluded at a weekend meeting that the average American would still put away about five gallons of their product in 1958, about par for the yearly course.

Ike at Church Lincoln Favored

GETTYSBURG, Pa., (UP)— President and Mrs. Eisenhower attended Palm Sunday services Sunday at the Presbyterian church where Abraham Lincoln once worshipped.

It was the only break in the President's Sabbath of rest and relaxation with his wife and two of his grandchildren, Dwight David II, and Susan. The President planned to return to the White House Monday afternoon.

Red Cross' New Life-Saving Method Traced Back to Elisha in Bible

ARTHUR KAPLAN DEMONSTRATES TECHNIQUE
His Three-Year-Old Daughter, Debby, Is "Victim"

A life-saving method that goes back to Biblical days is "latest thing" in Red Cross water safety techniques.

Atlantans enrolling in first aid and life-saving classes this season will be taught the method of artificial respiration known as "mouth-to-mouth breathing."

"Every parent should know this technique," stressed Charles Rice, local Red Cross safety director. "It is invaluable for infants and young children, and the average person can administer this method with a minimum of training."

"Mouth-to-mouth breathing" is designed not only for aiding drowning victims but for any event in which resuscitation is needed.

"Stoppage of breathing can come from electric shock, suffocation, choking, and many other causes," Rice pointed out. "Regardless of the cause, some method of artificial respiration must be started at once. Usually when a person stops breathing, the heart will continue to beat for a short time. It is during this interim period that action is vital.

Arthur Kaplan, volunteer water safety instructor who lives at 1624 Stephens Dr., NE, often demonstrates the new method with aid of his three-year-old daughter, Debbie.

The method is also applicable for use on adults where a chest injury might dictate that some method other than pressure on chest or back be used.

It is said to be the technique used by Elisha in the Old Testament, when he breathed life back into a Shummanite child.

A mother using the technique would first clear her child's mouth of any foreign matter and with her middle finger hold the tongue forward. She would place the child in a face-down, head-down position and pat him firmly on the back with the free hand to help dislodge any foreign object in the air passage.

Then the child would be placed on his back. The mother or other person using the new method would hold his jaw in a jutting-out position and covering his mouth with her own, would breath with a smooth, steady action. The free hand would apply continuous moderate pressure to the child's abdomen.

Atlantans are urged to sign up for a free Red Cross First Aid course or life-saving course and learn the method. Persons holding group meetings may request a demonstration or discussion of the technique. This free professional service by Red Cross volunteers and instructors is made possible by funds raised in campaigns.

God's Love Transcends All Others

QUESTION: How does divine love differ from the love of family and friends? Is there really a difference?—M. J. D.

ANSWER: The word "love" has many meanings. First, it can be a strong liking, as the love of music or art. Second, there is conjugal love, affection for a person of the opposite sex. Third, there is filial love, the love of children for their parents. Then, there is parental love, the affection of parents for their children.

But high above all these is the love of God. This love transcends all other loves. It is best expressed in the familiar verse: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whosoever believeth on Him, might not perish but have everlasting life."

It is this love that prompts Christians to go to the ends of the earth to preach the Gospel. It was this love that inspired a young soldier who was in a prison camp in Japan to say: "They were ignorant and mean, but I knew there was some good in them. So I'm going to a missionary school for training, and I'm going to spend the rest of my life in Japan, teaching the importance of love among men."

Six big reasons why FORD is the big wagon favorite

1. Ford wagons outcomfort them all

To begin with, Ford wagons for 1958 are the only wagons in the low-price field that give you the comfort of foam-rubber cushioned front seats in all models. Ford wagons give you a 15% softer ride. And Ford's new Magic-Circle steering is up to 12% easier—makes toughest parking and maneuvering problems a breeze.

2. Ford wagons set the style

The brilliant new 4-passenger Thunderbird—1958's on-the-road dream car—inspired the style of each and every one of Ford's six new wagons. That means you get trim, sculptured lines . . . front-end and rear-end styling that will stay in style for years to come.

3. Ford wagons are built to stay built

Of all the wagons in Ford's field, only Ford offers so many braces in the roof (Ford has 6, while others have but 4). And only Ford has 18 rubber body mounts and extra insulation against weather and noise. Ford wagons are stand-outs for stand-up!

4. You can have the Thunderbird's own V-8 GO

Enjoy thrilling Thunderbird GO in your choice of all new V-8's . . . up to 300-horsepower strong. With new Precision Fuel Induction, these great engines bring you a new brand of responsive power . . . particularly in your normal driving range. Let your Ford Dealer demonstrate!

5. You can save up to 15% on gas

Team one of Ford's all-new V-8 engines with Cruise-O-Matic Drive (the newest, thriftiest, most versatile automatic going) and you can save up to 15% on gas! Or choose Ford's Mileage Maker Six . . . the most advanced, gas-savingest Six in its field!

6. It's the lowest-priced wagon of the low-price three*

In the low-price three, you can't find a lower-priced 2-door wagon! In fact, all six Ford wagons are priced lower than comparable competitive models. Just one more of the many reasons why Ford sells nearly half again as many wagons as anyone else!

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices
